Student Vote Will Play Major Role in Next Tuesday's Elections

Election Day is Tuesday. In Princeton, the interest in this year's election focused on the student vote — a brand new phenomenon for campaigners in Borough and Township because students haven't voted here since 1927.

And a corollary, of course, is the 18-year-old vote. Both these new developments will bring a lot of new voters to the polls Tuesday — probably 500 registered students in the Borough, and 130 in the Township. To say nothing of the 18-year-olds and over who decided to vote here by absentee ballot instead of voting in their college town.

Campaigning in the Borough's District One, where most of the dormitories are has been steady and vigorous. Robert W. Cawley, running for re-election as Borough mayor, remarked this week that he's been ringing the doorbells, figuratively, of individual student's rooms, checking voter registration lists to make sure nobody slips through the eye of the needle.

The Borough's race has been more interesting to follow than the Township's for many reasons. Under a new state law, who ever is elected mayor of the Borough on Tuesday will serve four years, instead of the traditional two.

Mr. Cawley, the incumbent, is a Republican in his late 40s, an engineer-executive with Western Electric. Edward Schneider, his challenger, is a Democrat in his early 30's. A founder of the Movement for a New Congress, he teaches political science at CUNY-City University of New York.

And there is a third name in the race this year: Marie Coan. A conservative, old-line Borough Democrat, Mrs. Coan decided to run as an Independent. Voters elected her Borough tax collector in the 60s, but she was defeated three years ago by the incumbent, Christine St. John, who isn't running again.

So the Borough, whoever is elected, will have the same mayor for the next four years without the need for another campaign only two years from now.

Two seats are at stake on Borough Council. Alice Male and John Strange, both Democrats, want to hold on to what they've got. Republicans Arthur Morgan and Thomas Cawley are the challengers.

If both Republicans win, Council will be divided along party lines by an even three-three split. If both Democrats win, Council will retain its present five-one Democratic majority. Borough mayors cannot vote, except to break a tie.

An interesting dash of spice in all this is Borough Councilman Robert Hendry. He's running for State Assembly on the Democratic ticket.

If he wins, whoever is elected mayor will have to appoint somebody to fill his seat. But even an elected Republican mayor, as Mayor Cawley learned early this year, bows to the majority on his Council when it comes to appointments: Mr. Cawley named Mr. Strange to fill out the remaining year in the Council term of Democrat James Andrews.

The question is — whose votes will Mrs. Coan get? The assumption has been that she will hurt Mr. Schneider (indeed, some will say that is exactly why she decided to run). However, Mr. Schneider, as a young and liberal Democrat, can be expected to count several student votes and they will probably more than make up for any he loses to Mrs. Coan.

Also, in a surprise endorsement, this week, another old-line Democrat, Edward Sweeney, came out in support of the Schneider-Male-Strange-Perone ticket. For veteran, conservative Borough Democrats, the nod of Ed Sweeney may mean a switch of votes from Coan to Schneider.

The presence of Mary Perone on that ticket may cost Mrs. Coan some votes, also. Miss Perone, like Mrs. Coan and Mr. Sweeney, has been identified for many years with the more conservative Democratic wing, yet she joined forces to run on a liberal ticket.

Borough Voters have another choice to make: how about a $750 yearly salary for Councilmen? It's on the ballot as a referendum.

Racial Problems Jeopardize Future of Athletics at Princeton High

A crisis involving suspension of a black Princeton High School football player and the threatened resignation of six assistant football coaches if he is re-instated, occupied the school board Tuesday night for two of the stormiest hours the board has weathered in some months.

An audience estimated at 300 jammed Community Park's all-purpose room, overflowing into the ball, the school yard outside the door and eventually spilling out onto 50 chairs set up on stage.

Applause, cheers, boos and jeers punctuated the meeting. Black and white football players, parents (chiefly white) and townspeople were equally vocal, although the youth seemed more restrained than the elders.

Robert Bierman, board president, said that while the board did not have all the facts, it was clear that PHS Principal Patricia Wertheimer had concurred with the decision of Head Football Coach Richard Wood that the football playing student, Wesley Hines, should be permanently suspended from the team. Hines had appealed that decision to the Superintendent, who then over-ruled both Dr. Wertheimer and Coach Wood, proposing instead a one-week suspension, followed by re-instatement.

William Bux, president of the Princeton Regional Education Association, speaking for the assistant coaches, took the

Late Breaking News In PHS Story

Assistant football coaches at Princeton High School have consented to go back to work at least until Friday, when the School Board will reach a decision in the Wesley Hines case.

After an executive session that lasted until 3 a.m. Wednesday, the Board adjourned to meet again Wednesday night with young Hines himself — he was not present Tuesday — and with anyone he cares to bring. The Board hopes to reach a decision after Wednesday's meeting, but will certainly do so by Friday, according to Robert Bierman, president.

At the lengthy executive session, the Board talked with black athletes as a group and with the coaches as a group. In between, they talked with various white athletes.

"Although the student involved is a precipitating factor," Dr. Bierman said after the meeting, "the players see this as a relatively minor thing. The players, both black and white, are more concerned with playing conditions, medical attention, the relationship among themselves and with the coaches, and the general feeling of getting a fair shake."

No decision on whether Saturday's game at Perth Amboy will be played is expected before Friday. In the event that it is, the kickoff has been advanced from 2 until to 1:30 by Perth Amboy officials. They did so in order to provide better police protection before dark, since that school, too, has been hit by racial troubles this fall.

superintendent's decision to the board, on appeal under the grievance procedures in teachers' contracts.

Midnight Oil. After a 30-minute executive huddle, the board agreed to take up the grievance that night. By law, it can only hear grievances in executive session, and it was after 11 p.m., when the public meeting adjourned and the board began to hear the parties involved.

Football players, parents — anyone with factual information to contribute, was invited to stay and speak. It is board policy not to name names, where personnel matters are involved, but in spite of Dr. Bierman's warning, young Hines' name was mentioned frequently, and so was Mr. Woods.

At the end of the noisy and emotional session, Dr. McPherson read a lengthy statement explaining why he over-ruled the principal and coach and suggesting ways coach and principal might work out guidelines for handling football.

The superintendent denied rumors that he wants to quash the varsity football program.

A Positive Program. "The principal and I have been quite clear to Mr. Wood that we are not sympathetic to any plan that would diminish the positive contributions of competitive intrascholastic sports," the superintendent stated.

"Support for the principal or the coach is not automatically guaranteed," the superintendent continued. "I have an obligation to hear the student's appeal."

He decided to overrule, he explained, because permanent expulsion of the student would be inconsistent with the idea of school, and would keep the student from learning. The superintendent recommended repeated short suspensions instead, if necessary in the future.

The incident that brought about expulsion was apparently based on "impulsive use of profanity." The superintendent then pointed out that students can't be expected to have strict standards regarding profanity if the coaches themselves use it.

Background Sought. A West Windsor parent who protested that all he'd heard was rumors asked repeatedly for "the facts." Dr. Wertheimer gave a lengthy and detailed chronology of the incident.

She said repeatedly that discussions, while painful and difficult, were carried on with sincerity. The black athletes agreed that "some kind of discipline was necessary for

Mayorality Candidates in Tuesday's Borough Election

Robert Cawley

Marie Coan

Ned Schneier

Divergent Viewpoints. The two Republican Council candidates have opposing views: "I support it," stated Tom Cawley at a press conference this week. "There are expenses you can't put on a voucher, like hiring somebody to cut the grass or do some painting because as a Councilman you don't have time. Surrounding towns pay their elected officials—and after all, $750 doesn't begin to pay for the time."

"I'm not so sure," stated Arthur Morgan. "When major programs have to be implemented, adding one more tax point is an unnecessary expenditure. The budgeted item for Council expenses isn't used to the full as it is, and a Councilman should never be shy about collecting for any legitimate expense."

"I don't feel strongly about it," stated Mayor Cawley. "I do think the timing is wrong." The measure was introduced by Council Democrats. It was Mrs. Male who first proposed the idea of a referendum.

The Tax Collector race, normally less than exhilarating, has a spark of interest this year. Laurence Patterson, who's been the pro on the job for about 15 years, is running on the Republican ticket with the idea of combining his full-time paid job with the fraction-time $400-a-year elected job. Mary Perone is running on the Democratic ticket for the $400-a-year post. She believes the two positions should be kept separate.

Mr. Patterson is appointed on a yearly basis and could be ousted by a change in administration. "I'm running to safeguard my job," he said last week with a smile.

Tax Changes Sought. Republicans are campaigning on their experience. Democrats on broadening community representation on various boards, and using the mayor's position as leverage to get tax changes through the state legislature.

The Democrats this week said too few women, young people, renters and center-city residents are named to municipal boards: 60% of the appointees live either in the Western Section or the Riverside District; 63% are men; all but three are homeowners, 88% are over 40 years old.

Blacks, however, with slightly under 20% of the total appointments, fare relatively well.

The Democrats concede that partisanship apparently hasn't been a factor; 16 appointees are registered Republicans, 14 Democrats.

Republicans like the idea of cluster housing, combined with a park, on the old quarry land between Harrison and Spring. They find a lot of demand for small apartments of 500-750 square feet, and they don't think all housing need be for low middle-income groups.

New Home Owners. Campaigning in the John-Witherspoon area, candidates have found that recent settlement of an estate has allowed many former renters to buy their houses. (Renters were given first option to buy, in the will). Republicans find, in this area, less need for housing than for money in the form of small mortgages.

In the so-called "Tree" streets, taxes are a concern because so many live on fixed incomes, all candidates find.

Mrs. Coan, in a statement this week, urges a Community Drug Center financed entirely by private funds and staffed by professionals. It would initiate programs of prevention, education, information treatment and rehabilitation.

"Both Borough and Township governments have allocated taxpayer funds to hit or miss programs," she charged. "They have formed committees to study the question. I believe the role of the governing bodies should be to take the initiative to interest private citizens in subsidizing."

Mayorality at Stake. In the Township, meanwhile, the campaign has been somewhat two-dimensional. Here, the prize is the mayor's chair. If both James A. Floyd and Thomas B. Hartmann win, presumably Mr. Floyd will continue as Democratic mayor.

If just one Republican wins, however, the balance will shift and probably Committeeman John D. Wallace would move back into the mayor's chair he sat in during 1970, in a kind of annual "Going to Jerusalem" game.

The Republican challengers, Barbara Smoyer and John Kuser, have leaned heavily on the tax question and in a final statement this week, quoted Mr. Hartmann's statement in the League of Women Voters' brochure: "Local government and the school board can do little by themselves to stem the rise in local taxes."

"We totally reject this defeatist, Democrat attitude," the Republicans declare in their statement. "We think there is always much that can be done to protect the taxpayers' pocketbook and we pledge to do it."

For Senior Citizens. Both candidates support conversion of homes into apartment, where such conversions would allow older people to remain in the home.

And Mr. Kuser, in an appeal to bike-riders, said this week that for $2,000 or 5,000 at the most, part of the bicycle path network could be put into operation.

The Democrats on their side, proposed this week an Intern Program for Princeton undergraduates. Students would work in some area of Township government, perhaps full time for a semester. An architecture student might work with the Regional Planning Board, an ecologist with the Conservation Commission, an engineering student with the Sewer Operating Committee.

"They would bring fresh approaches to old problems," Mr. Floyd stated. "they might provide our voluntary boards and commissions with a much-needed research arm; they would involve their professors and their professors' expertise in the solution of local problems."

Mr. Floyd and Mr. Hartmann declared their belief that there has been "substantial improvement" in the University's sensitivity and involvement in the affairs of the town.

HOSPITAL CUTS STAFF
Classes 34-Bed Unit. Princeton Hospital will close a 34-bed medical-surgical unit and drop an estimated 20 to 25 employees from the payroll this Friday.

Ralph S. Mason, president of the board of trustees, was quoted as saying, "Without this move, we couldn't pay the whole staff in two weeks."

According to administrator Walter Seligman, the non-profit hospital has depleted its cash reserves. Budgeted for 82.4% occupancy, the bed usage has dipped to 79.8% recently. The hospital has operated at a loss for the last three months.

Dismissal notices were given on Monday to recently-employed members of the staff, including registered nurses, licensed practical nurses and ward clerks.

Mr. Mason, in announcing on Monday the close of the 34-bed unit in A-building, termed the action "in line with a growing trend prevalent nationally toward more and more use of extended care and outpatient facilities as opposed to acute hospital usage."

Procedural Changes. He said that many patients normally housed in the hospital are today being cared for at Merwick, the extended care and rehabilitation center; at Princeton House, the mental health center the hospital purchased on Mount Lucas Road, or at home through the hospital's home-care program.

He added that "A direct result of the increased use of these units has been the emptying of medical and surgical beds in the general hospital. With these facilities not utilized to capacity, the hospital has faced an increasing adverse financial situation, and has been operating at a loss for the last three months."

"Closing of the third floor (of A-Building) at this time, with an attendant reduction in personnel, will alleviate this economically unsound condition." The hospital will continue to use 147 medical-surgical beds.

Additional bed facilities in J building will result in a net closing of 29 beds, Mr. Mason said. He emphasized that the trustees view the closing as "a semi-permanent move."

Up to $80 a Day. Daily room rates at Princeton Hospital are $70 to $80 for a single room and $60 for a double room. Mr. Mason explains that patients

Halloween Parade Saturday

The Princeton Recreation Department and the Princeton Chamber of Commerce will hold their annual Halloween parade and program at 6:30 Saturday evening.

From the parking lot adjacent to the Public Library, the parade will proceed down Nassau Street to Moore and down Moore to the high school auditorium where prizes will be awarded for the best costumes and best artistic creations.

All those who wish to participate should meet in the library lot at 6:15. Additional information concerning the parade or the pumpkin cut-out contest may be obtained from the recreation office at 921-9480 from 9 to 5.

are spending less time in the hospital, partially because of the present-day tight money situation. Use of Merwick, Princeton House and the home-care program is less costly.

Under construction at Princeton Hospital is a million-dollar emergency facility, being built from a capital budget based upon fund raising rather than patients fees.

In addition to the dismissals, employees with low seniority are reported to be shifted to night work or to lower paying jobs. A registered nurse, Miss Rosie Bohn, is reported as claiming that the hospital is short on personnel on weekends. One floor this week, she said, had a licensed practical nurse and a registered nurse tending 42 patients.

DRUG ACTION BACKED

By School Board. The school board has become the second elected body to underwrite formation of a municipal drug-abuse control committee.

By a vote of 7-1 Tuesday night, the board followed Township Committee in authorizing the establishment of a body formed of elected officials from Township and Borough governing bodies and school board and appointed officials on the two boards of health.

The measure leaves room for the appointment of three more members. School board member Winthrop Pike explained that he was voting "no" because the enabling resolution wasn't specific enough in prohibiting the appointment of a paid employee of a drug control organization.

Confusion over Freeze. Earlier, Mr. Pike reported that the wage freeze situation for school employees was in a state of "complete confusion and utter uncertainty."

The state requires, Mr. Pike reported, that the school board pay the new and higher salary to teachers who happened to be working during the summer. Other teachers are paid at the old rate.

"We have no choice in this matter," he commented.

The state also requires that the board hang on to any unexpended funds that teachers would otherwise be collecting in salary.

Decline in enrollment in the school system is "unmistakable," the board said in its enrollment report. A 59-pupil increase at the high school—exceeding Long Range Planning expectations—is probably due to more West Windsor students than anybody had expected.

Mr. Pike reported that the West Windsor school board probably will not withdraw its high school students from Princeton in 1972, as anticipated, and will only withdraw two grades the following year. This eases the budgetary problems of the Princeton district. Mr. Pike reminded the board.

Complaint Department. A meeting date will be set in the next two weeks with the Parents of Princeton Children organization so its representatives can meet with the board's new "complaint" committee, reported the committee's chairman, William Marvel.

The committee has met for the first time with the Princeton Regional Education Association. Mr. Marvel reported. The PREA president, William Bux, brought two assistant coaches to the meeting to discuss the crisis involving coaches and black athletes. The board committee hopes to meet with the PREA every six to eight weeks, Mr. Marvel said.

In a progress report on the Long Range Planning situation, Board president Robert Bierman said the board plans to call in two staff members of Educational Testing Service to talk about developing goals for the school system. A meeting has been held on the subject with Superintendent Philip E. McPherson and the principals.

Each school is working on plans for curriculum review, to

Sen. McCarthy Due Here

Sen. Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota will speak on "Personal Morality in Public Office" during a day-long visit here next Sunday.

The Democratic senator now teaching at the University of Maryland, will give a University Chapel Lecture at 2:30 in Alexander Hall on the University campus. The event is open to the public; a question-and-answer session will follow.

At 4, Sen. McCarthy will introduce Soviet poet Andrei Voznesensky when he appears in McCarthy Theater to read from his works in Russian. English translations of Voznesensky's poems will be read by Prof. Theodore R. Weiss, Professor of Creative Writing at Princeton.

Sen. McCarthy will be the guest here of Mrs. Percy H. Wood, Jr., 54 Hodge Road, who is heading a McCarthy-for-President movement in New Jersey.

he continued into the spring. These plans involve an evaluation of the British Infant School approach. Dr. Bierman said.

Recommendations about the high school—vocational education, house plan, and so on—will be considered throughout the winter at curriculum sessions.

Priority Questioned. Prefacing a brief report on Staff Development, Dr. Constance Vieland, who directs the program, complained that neither the community nor the staff seemed to regard Staff Development as a vital matter. She protested the place of her report on the agenda, and Dr. Bierman hastily assured her that it was not toward the end by intent.

Mr. Pike raised a mild protest against a program for teaching educational psychology to school secretaries. Almost all children confront the secretaries at one time or another, frequently in crisis (forgotten lunch money, and so on), and Dr. Vieland feels the secretaries need beefing up in how to handle young-

Several board members, including C. George Fitzgerald and Mr. Marvel, questioned the wisdom of paying teachers $150 each for taking a course called "Teaching and Learning." It meets after school once a week for 15 weeks.

GOHEEN REVEALS PLANS

To Head Council on Foundations, Robert F. Goheen, who will resign as Princeton University's 16th president at the end of the current academic year, announced Sunday afternoon he had accepted an offer to become chairman of the Council on Foundations.

Located in New York, the Council is a 22-year-old membership organization composed of some 500 grant-making foundations in this country, Canada and Puerto Rico. While Mr. Goheen's election to the board is effective immediately, it is not expected that he will devote full time to the position of chairman until June.

As the first full-time permanent chairman of the Council, Mr. Goheen will head a board composed of 35 men and women representing the Council's membership and the public. At present 502 foundations are members, ranging from the largest, the Ford Foundation with assets of about $3 billion, to several small foundations with assets of less than $1,000.

The Council is an outgrowth of the National Committee on Foundations and Community Trusts for Community Welfare, established in 1949. Until recently, its primary function has been to provide program consultation and information services for member organizations.

"I look forward to this job because I will have a relatively small staff and will have an opportunity and the freedom to do what I want," Mr. Goheen commented Sunday. "A university is a very large and complex, sustained organization. At least for the time being I've had enough of that type of organization."

Referring to the Council's chairmanship, Mr. Goheen commented, "Instead of coming in each morning to a great, big engine that goes along full tilt whether you come in or not, this is a much more intimate kind of thing."

The 52-year-old former classics professor, who was named to the presidency 15 years ago said he had turned down offers from larger organizations and opportunities to return to teaching as a classics professor. "I couldn't see myself going back into the professorial ranks after having been away from it for so long," he explained.

Although he has not worked out all his personal plans, Mr. Goheen said he expected to be living in New York, at least temporarily.

LET'S GET MOVING!

On Jitney Service, "I'm urging the joint transportation commission to get an experiment going on the use of jitneys and 'remote-parking facilities,'" said Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley at his press conference this week.

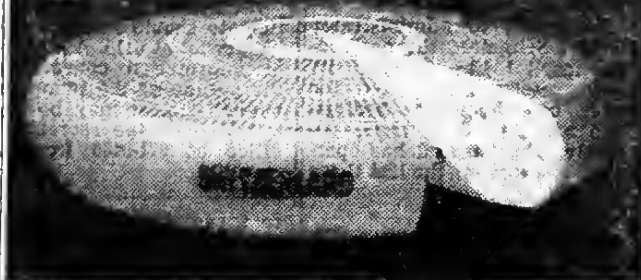

The commission has been proposing the use of parking lots owned by institutions—chiefly churches—on the edges of the business district. Drivers would leave their cars there, and take a jitney or other kind of bus into town.

One of the roadblocks has been inability to reach agreement with the churches and organizations on charges for

CARPI SAW HIS WIFE

On Day She Died, Police Say. Det. Sgt. Norman Servis has testified before the grand jury that Colin C. Carpi admitted to Township Police he had visited the State Road home of his estranged wife on Monday, February 8, the day she was murdered.

Det. Servis' testimony, given to the jury in Trenton last August, was revealed on Friday to Mr. Carpi's defense attorney, Gerald Stockman in an evidence-search hearing in Mercer County Superior Court.

It was the first disclosure that police are claiming that Mr. Carpi did see his wife, Laura, on the day the prosecution says she was shot to death.

Mr. Stockman did not challenge Det. Servis' grand jury testimony, but was given assurance that he will see any memos on the alleged statement from Mr. Carpi to police.

Mr. Stockman will appear in private before Superior Court Judge A. Jerome Moore on Friday to try to quash the indictment handed down by the grand jury on August 19.

GIRL IS HOSPITALIZED

Overdose Suspected. Borough police are continuing their investigation of an apparent overdose of drugs which felled a 16-year-old Township girl on the University campus.

Police said that the girl was found semi-conscious Saturday on a second floor in the New School for Architecture building. "She had difficulty in breathing," said Chief Peter J. McCrohan.

She was taken to Princeton Hospital and admitted. Borough police were called to the campus by the University's

GENERAL ALARM SOUNDS

For Jefferson Road Fire. A general alarm was sounded last Wednesday at 5:35 p.m. or a fire in a home at 38 Jefferson Road, owned by A. F. Roberto of 27 Hawthorne Avenue.

Police identified the tenant as Mrs. Joan Bartl. Her children were taken out safely, according to Police Chief Peter J. McCrohan. Ptl. Bernard Lenhardt, responding to several calls from neighbors, was first on the scene.

Fire was confined to the attic, causing mostly smoke damage, the chief said. Faulty electrical wiring was suspected as the cause.

DRUGS BY MAIL

University Student Charged. A Princeton University student has been charged with receiving drugs through the mail.

James A. Elkins 3d, 19, of South Dod Hall, was arrested Thursday afternoon by Borough police and charged with possession of a dangerous substance. His arrest was the result, Chief Peter J. McCrohan said, of co-operation from State Police and U. S. postal authorities. The seized material, he said, has been sent to the police labs for analysis.

Elkins was released in $500 bail to await a court hearing here on Wednesday.

CHARGES FLY

After Unpaid Dinner. Four persons have a date in Borough court after they allegedly refused to pay for a meal Sunday at the Colonial Restaurant on Witherspoon Street.

The owner, Demetro Romeo, filed complaint charges against Richard Cruser, 22, 67 College Road West; Katherine Pettit, 23, 104 Bayard Lane; Sandra Duryee of Hightstown; and Carter Lewis, 345 Nassau Street. In addition, Miss Pettit was also charged with assault by the cashier, Mrs. Janet Perez, a resident of Trenton.

Mrs. Perez, in turn, was charged with assault by Mr. Cruser. All are scheduled to

FUND DRIVE AT 36%

As Campaign Progresses. Led by the Neighborhood Division's response to this year's "People to People" campaign to raise funds for 21 member agencies of the Princeton Area United Fund and the Red Cross, the various divisions of the 1971 Community Fund Drive have reported a total of $224,273.

Neighborhood appeals by the Fund's area vice-presidents have already brought forth gifts and pledges totaling 80% of the $31,000 goal, while overall campaign receipts stand at 36% of the $619,916 target for the support of community needs in 1972. The area vice-presidents are — for Cranbury, H. Craig Gilbert; East Windsor - Hightstown, Anthony Franzo and Mrs. Paul D. Haring; Kingston, Leslie J. Luck Jr.; Montgomery Township - Rocky Hill, Mrs. Margaret Bol; Princeton - Lawrenceville, Herbert

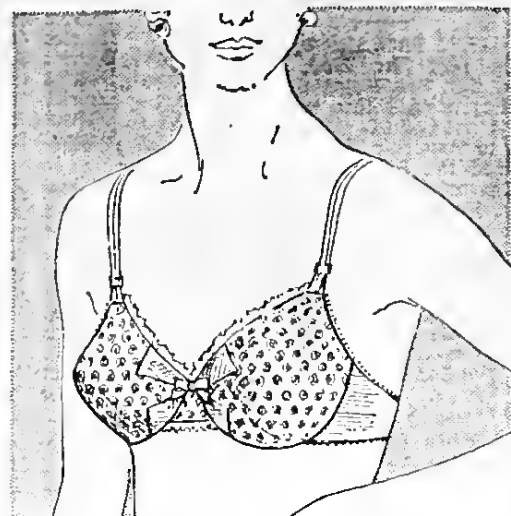

W. Hobler; Plainsboro - West Windsor, Albert Rauch.

Reporting for the Research and Industrial Division, Charles Scholl, chairman, indicated that solicitation of employees in research and industrial plants in the area is now in full swing, with $78,227 contributed thus far toward the divisional objective of $261,000. Special Gifts Chairman Ray-

WOULD YOU BUY THE SAME PRODUCT FOR 25 YEARS without checking competition?

We doubt that there is a person in America who would admit to such a practice. But right here in Mercer County many voters have been buying the same political product for 25 years.

The Republicans do not for one minute say that we have all the answers. However, we do say that a political machine that has been entrenched in power for a quarter-century, is not, and cannot be, responsive to the ever-increasing problems of the County.

Remember, up to 23% of your taxes go to Mercer County (run by the Freeholders). Think about that. Then try to name the services you get in return.

Both Joe Castoro and Ed Weihenmayer are experienced elected officials — at the local level. They know the municipal problems. Listen to what Castoro and Weihenmayer have to say. You just might like what you hear. Compare with their opponents.

By electing both Castoro and Weihenmayer, the Board of Freeholders will become 4-3 Republican. See what they stand for, what the entire Board would emphasize when Castoro and Weihenmayer are elected.

CASTORO-WEIHENMAYER TEAM FOR FREEHOLDER SUPPORT

1. State legislation for restructuring of government at County level—including greater control over County Boards, Authorities and Commissions.
2. Night meetings for the Board of Freeholders and meetings around the county to give more people access to county government.
3. Realignment of priorities of tax dollars; we realize taxes realistically cannot be reduced but feel a change of priorities is essential to insure maximum returns on our tax dollar.
4. A professional non-partisan county administrator responsible to the entire Board of Freeholders rather than to the Majority Party.
5. Roebling Park improvements and expansion plus a higher priority for this County Park thru greater use of new federal funds.
6. Greater activity and leadership from the Mercer County Environmental Advisory Council—specifically to protect County Parks and Open Spaces.
7. A County Fire and Rescue Training School.
8. A regional solid waste disposal system with special emphasis on recycling.

THE DAY PEOPLE STOPPED TALKING, a children's whimsy with a thread of truth, has been completed by Paul and Mary Ritts on a CBS-TV special to be aired later this fall. Filmed in Philadelphia and Washington, D.C., the show puts Paul in front of the camera in the role of the last authentic genie. That's li'l ol' Magnolia looking over his shoulder, manipulated, as always, by Mary Ritts.

News Of The THEATRES

MUTED HUMANS

And Talking Pets. Princeton's Paul Ritts got to thinking one day about what it would be like if people couldn't talk, but animals could. The result is "The Day People Stopped Talking," a half-hour children's special he and his wife Mary have just finished for CBS-TV.

"Of course, the world slowly comes to a grinding halt," Paul says, in his expressive way. "Businesses fail because people can't talk on the telephone. Schools close because teachers can't say anything. Airplanes can't fly because pilots can't talk with the control tower . . . The Post Office goes on strike because every day is like Christmas rush. . .

The animals, played by the Ritts' puppets, try to be helpful and the action moves to Lafayette Park outside the White House, where a genie, last of the breed, is settled on a park bench, reading the paper. Turns out he is the Cause of it All. There's a happy ending, fully of whimsy, and a moral that says, "if people ever stop talking to each other, look out!"

MCCARTHY AS M.C.

For Voznesensky. Senator Eugene McCarthy, who has a reputation as a poet himself, will introduce the Soviet poet Andrei Voznesensky to the audience in McCarter Theatre this Sunday at 4 p.m.

English translations of Voznesensky's poems will be read by the American poet Theodore Weiss, professor of English at Princeton, after Voznesensky reads them in Russian.

Since the Soviet poet's last visit to the United States in 1968, he has had a new volume of poetry published in the Soviet Union with an initial printing of 90,000 "Anti-worlds" is his best-known work in the United States.

AZNAVOUR TO SING

Princeton Debut. Charles Aznavour first achieved recognition in this country as an actor in Truffaut's "Don't Shoot the Piano Player," although his real profession is that of singer-songwriter.

The French star will make his first Princeton appearance this Friday at 8 p.m. in McCarter. Tickets are on sale at the box office.

As a songwriter teamed with Pierre Roche, M. Aznavour turned out dozens of songs for stars like Chevalier, Mistinguett and Edith Piaf. Aznavour went off on his own in 1950, but it was a decade

"CHINA IS NEAR"

Italian Film Coming. Italian director Marco Bellocchio's 1966 film, "China is Near" will be the next screening in McCarter's International Film Series. It will be shown next Monday at 8 p.m.

"China is Near," set in provincial Italy, is described as a comedy of mores, dealing with sex, politics and the provincial family. In a style which some critics have called "Black comedy out of commedia dell'arte," Bellocchio attempts to show that politics is life, and therefore absurd.

The plot, almost operatic in its baroque complexity, depicts "Italian leftism in complete and total disarray."

BECKETT, ON STAGE

With Music, Dance. "Exercises en Route," a dance-music-film presentation based on texts by Samuel Beckett will be performed in McCarter Theatre Thursday, November 4, under the auspices of the Friends of Music at Princeton. "Exercises" has been described by its composer, Earl Kim, as "a series of attempts to move forward." With his wife Mimi Kagan, the choreographer, Mr. Kim has fashioned a work in which Beckett's words are spoken, sung, delivered in speech-song, and danced to.

There is instrumental music and there is vocal music, composed by Mr. Kim, and there are silences, composed by Mr. Beckett. Four of the work's five sections have music—soprano, and an ensemble of violin, cello, flute, piccolo, oboe, clarinet and percussion—and although there is a film, the work is not multi-media because dance and film are not used at the same time.

A Beckett "dramaticule" called "come and go" is included in its minute entirety.

Featured performers will be Miss Kagan, joined by four dancers, the soprano soloist Benita Valente, and the instrumentalists. Mr. Kim, will conduct.

Both Mr. Kim and Miss Kagan are well-known in Princeton. For many years, Mr. Kim was a member of the faculty of the University's music department. Miss Kagan taught dance here and did choreography.

"Exercises" was presented for the first time in January of this year at Sanders Theatre, Cambridge, Mass. Mr. Kim is currently professor of music at Harvard.

SHAW, AT STUART

"Arms and the Man." Bernard Shaw's first play to be produced in the United States, "Arms and the Man," will be presented November 19-20 by the Stuart Drama Club at Stuart Country Day School.

The Club will be assisted by male actors from Princeton University and Westminster Choir College. Munroe Wade will direct, assisted by Ruth Kay Walker.

In "Arms and the Man," Shaw presents an escaping Swiss soldier fighting professionally for the Serbians, who finds himself in the bedroom of a Bulgarian lady who stands between him and his pursuers. Like "Pygmalion," which became "My Fair Lady," "Arms and the Man" metamorphosed into a musical, "The Chocolate Soldier," produced in the early 1900s.

SEND YOUR SCRIPT!
Contest Opens. Playwrights with a script in the attic trunk or still in the typewriter, are invited to send in the scripts to the Street Theatre's Original Script Competition. (Only non-professional playwrights may apply, incidentally.)
Winning scripts will be performed next summer in the Street Theatre's regular Princeton street - and - park season, and the winning writer will receive a cash award.

Scripts can be any length, on any subject. But they have to be adaptable to street-theatre style; that is, with very simple scenery and costumes. Manuscripts should be sent to Mrs. Amie Brockway, 4 Wheeler Way, Apt. A-1 Princeton.

The Street Theatre is now meeting in Christ Congregation Church, corner of Walnut Lane and Houghton Street. Workshops are held the second and fourth Tuesdays each month from 7-9:30 p.m. Playreadings, also held at Christ Congregation, are held every Sunday from 7 p.m. Both activities are open to all.

BON APPETIT'S Swiss Festival begins this week with cheese foodie demonstrations on Thursday, Friday and Saturday by Catherine Grubenmann, this year's Swiss Miss for the Switzerland Cheese Association. She cannot only explain how to store, serve and cook with cheese, but also describe the traditional step-by-step craftsmanship of Swiss cheesemaking. Bon Appetit is marking the event by reducing Swiss Emmentaler and Gruyere cheese from $1.95 per pound to $1.69. It will be shredded, if you like, so that it melts just right in your fondue pot. Bon Appetit's spacious new quarters at Princeton Shopping Center are on the corner near the bus stop.

WHAT'S FERMENTING
In Your Cellar? A man came into Wine Hobby USA the other day said he was going to make madeira. "You know," says Mrs. Betty Seagers in some wonderment, "madeira has to be kept at 110° for a solid year — but he has figured out a way he can do it."

"Winemaking can be very simple or very involved," she adds. "The easiest way to learn is to make a gallon using one of the grape concentrates."

Mrs. Seagers and her husband, Jim, a chemist with Carter-Wallace, opened Wine Hobby USA on August 6 at 820 State Road, next to Cregar Motors. It's a very attractive shop, stocked with grape and fruit concentrates in cans, which make from one to five gallons. There are presses and crushers, yeasts and corks, bottles and a great variety of paperbacks on winemaking techniques.

"The people who come in are great!" Mrs. Seagers comments. "They are warm and friendly. This is a different type of retail store. We're not just offering something for sale; we get to know the customers. I have spent hours going through books for some little detail that concerns them."

There's a customer who makes champagne for an entry in an amateur wine-makers' competition. There's a youth who begs throwaway bananas from the grocery store. "He uses skins and all — and makes a delectable wine!" Mrs. Seagers smiles.

She has a batch of rose going at home, and some burgundy that's almost ready. The Seagers customers "are making all sorts of things — from fruit concentrates in cans, and from fresh peaches, apples, cherries and cranberries." Wine Hobby has 14 different kinds of grape concentrates, with more varieties due in. There are liqueur essences, such as orange brandy essence which will give you a Grand Marnier-type liqueur.

For about $7 or $8, Wine Hobby can set you up with beginners' basics for a gallon (or nearly 6 bottles) of your favorite type of wine. You need two fermenting units, and fermenting locks, corks, yeast, Camden tablets ("this is a cold sterilization method; all of your equipment has to be very clean."), siphon hose and a paperback book, "Successful Winemaking At Home." You can buy a larger unit and make five gallons at a time. A $3.50 can of concentrate will give you about six bottles of wine.

The wine should be aged for a minimum of three months. Mrs. Seagers says, but she adds, "It's quite nice at the end of six weeks!"

Christmas gift items are coming in, whether you would like to outfit a friend or family member with beginner's basics or wine racks, or a bottle carrier — the sheepskin wine bottle, or a book on winemaking.

Wine Hobby stocks champagne, bordeaux and white flint bottles — or you can save your empties, if they're the right kind.

It's New To Us

sia, a brooch commemorating Queen Victoria's Diamond Jubilee; oxbells from Nova Scotia on worn, leather straps — there's no telling what you'll find at the Christmas boutique at the Drawing Room, 33 Witherspoon Street (upstairs).

The boutique, which opened this Tuesday and closes on November 5, will benefit the Child Guidance Drug Program in Princeton and the Louis Braille Foundation for Blind Musicians.

As Laurie Vance Johnson and Mim Coletti were organizing the display on Saturday, we saw delightful, amusing, and often valuable items at low prices that make the Christmas boutique title, "Once in a Blue Moon," amply clear.

By the time you get there, some things will be gone, naturally, but to give you an idea — a scissor-like candle snuffer $5; a brass plaque from a New South Wales ship; mounted three point antlers; antique umbrellas with the most fabulous handles (the umbrella fabric is new and amusing).

We saw an ashtray held two feet up in the air by a snake-like coil of rope; heavy glass candlesticks, Gaspe Peninsula dolls in hand-knitted clothes, Spanish rug squares ($3 each); ladies' spats; linen wall hangings from London $5; handblocked papers for gift wraps or decorative crafts; boomerangs, decorative vases, and even a beautifully embroidered chemise.

OLD ARTS

In New Phases, The Eye for Art is showing decorative paper cutwork known as "Scherenschnitte" — a craft dating back to the Egyptians of 1400 BC — given a contemporary touch by Princeton's Gerry Kimble.

Her lacy designs are reproduced on notepaper and are very attractive. Mrs. Kimble calls her work "painting with hand scissors." It is imaginative and beautiful, with the designs cut in black and mounted on white.

The entrancing work includes an owl in a very leafy tree. Another is called "Woodland Music."

Scherenschnitte was made famous by the Swiss, who produced designs from the 1800's until the middle of this century. There are only a handful of practitioners left. The Chinese as early as the 10th Century used the lacy cutouts in various festive ways often hanging them in their paperpaned windows. The cloistered societies of Germany created filigreed pictures on a religious theme. In Poland today the cutwork is still a part of the folk culture.

The Eye for Art is also showing very fine quality rubbings from medieval tombs in Belgium. For instance, a memorial brass honoring Abbess Marguerite de Scoray who died in 1462 is reproduced, handrubbed by Priscilla Le Bourgeois at St. Gertrude's Collegiate Church, Nivelles. The abbess is shown kneeling before the Virgin and Child, with St. Margaret standing at the right. The rubbings are much finer and clearer than most.

The sizes vary, and color is incorporated in a few of them. They would make most unusual gifts.

Proceeds of the show will benefit Hadassah Israel Education Services. Tickets at 75 cents may be purchased at the door or in advance from Male's Book Shop, Huli's Shoes, Robert's Shoes or by calling Mrs. Herbert Horowitz, 799-0936, or Mrs. Philip Carchman, 924-7656.

PINTER

"The Lover." The theatre at Princeton Inn College will present Harold Pinter's "The Lover" the weekends of November 5-6 and 12-13. The public is invited to attend, and admission is $1.50.

Meir Z. Ribalow, who acted and directed for Theatre Intime when he was a University undergraduate, will direct the play and portray the husband. Mr. Ribalow played at Intime in "Incident at Vichy," "The Balcony," "The Misanthrope" and "Under Milk Wood" and directed Pinter's "The Dumbwaiter."

He also served as head Tri-angel Club writer on "A Different Kick" and "Call a Spade a Shovel."

The wife in Pinter's two-character play will be Carmen Apelgren, also an Intime performer. She was Nell in "Endgame," Joe in "Joe Egg" and Frau Rose in "The Physicists."

Paul Ashin will be technical director for the production and Pamela Candusso, stage manager.

BEACH BOYS BACK

For Second Performance. The Beach Boys have agreed to stay around on Saturday, November 13, to give a second performance in Dillon Gym. It will be at 11 p.m., after they've had a chance to recover from the 8 p.m. show.

Public demand is responsible for a sold-out 8 p.m. performance. Tickets for that early show were all gone within a week after they went on sale. Tickets for the 11 p.m. show are now on sale at the McCarter Theatre box-office.

PLAYHOUSE

Skin Game (now playing) an adventure film, about a black cowboy and a white cowboy set in Civil War days. James Garner and Lou Gossett are in the lead roles, and Susan Clark is the love interest.

(not reviewed at press time)

GARDEN

The Touch (now playing) is Ingmar Bergman's first work in the English language. Minor Bergman in many ways, it contains a great performance by Bibi Anderson as an adulterous wife.

Miss Anderson is Karen, a 34-year-old woman comfortably settled in a 15-year-old marriage to Andreas (Max von Sydow). Into their orderly, sun-drenched house comes an American archeologist (Elliott Gould). Insecure, neurotic, he unexplainably attracts her and she begins her first extramarital affair. After two years, she finds she has "lost her footing," that she cannot blend two lives into "one good, wise life."

Max von Sydow does wonders with a cliché role. He and Miss Anderson act circles around Elliott Gould, whose awkwardness and inadequateness as the archeologist nearly undermine the film.

Technically, it is a finely crafted movie. There is a fluid camera style, a witty, light touch in certain scenes and a very effective use of color to suggest mood and personality. In the writing, Bergman did a full-bodied job on the character of Karen.

mond A. Bowers is now sending out a reminder letter to his constituency, hoping that the $92,301 already raised will soon go over the top of the Special Gifts campaign objective $175,000.

Frederick M. Blaicher, Chairman of the Corporate, Professional and Trades Division pointed out that although his key Mercantile-Banking group had only "kicked off" its part of the 1971 drive at a breakfast meeting last Friday, other components of his Division, which includes educational institutions and the Professions, Management Planning and Data Processing companies, and the construction, service and building trades, had raised $28,682 towards a goal of $150,000.

TEENAGER ASSAULTED

At PHS Dance. A 17-year-old Township boy was assaulted by three youths Friday night outside Princeton High School while a dance was in progress.

Police received a report of the incident from a doctor at Princeton Hospital where four sutures were used to close a cut over the victim's eye. His three attackers, identified by the victim, were apprehended by Ptl. Ronald Holliday and Ptl. David Lewis, brought to headquarters and later released. They will be processed by Borough juvenile officer Thomas Procaccino, who brought charges against them.

HOUSE IS RANSACKED

On Balcourt Drive. The home of James Blair, 85 Balcourt Drive, was entered and ransacked last week by thieves who, police believe, parked in the victim's garage while they loaded their vehicle with stolen articles.

Taken were two television sets, a stereo system, cassette player, records, slide projector and a woman's watch.

DEMOCRATS ALL: Candidates running for Borough office and for State Assembly gathered for fun and fund-raising Saturday night. Left to right are Mary Perone, candidate for Borough Tax Collector; John Strange and Alice Male, candidates for incumbents running for Borough Council and Ned Schneier, candidate for mayor of the Borough. The local candidates met with Eone Harger (center), who's running for State Assembly. Mrs. Harger's daughter, Mrs. Haleyone Bohlen, Dean of Women at the University, was hostess for the event.

Their combined value was $1,186.50. Also stolen was $25 in cash.

Police said entry was gained by forcing a door to the kitchen. The burglary was reported Friday afternoon by a Balcourt Drive neighbor, Ptl. David Funk investigated.

During the weekend, thieves took $47 from a cash box in an office at Sylvan Pools, Princeton Shopping Center.

They entered by forcing an outside door and once inside, opened an unlocked door to the office. The metal cash box, found on the floor by the police, had been taken from a desk drawer. Michael Levy, the manager, who reported the theft, told police the store will be closing soon for the winter.

In a minor theft earlier in the week at the Shopping Center, Township police report that someone drilled a hole in the head of a playhorse amusement ride in front of Young Ages.

The coin box was dismantled and the contents taken, police said. Det. Norman Servis investigated.

Speakers Stolen. Two speakers valued at $10 were stolen last week from the lounge of the Unitarian Church, Cherry Hill Road. Sgt. Jack Petrone investigated that theft.

In the Borough, the assistant manager of Ladybug on Nassau Street reported that three dresses valued at $85 each had been shoplifted.

The manager, Ronnie Lindsey, told police that she had not noticed anyone suspicious in the store last Wednesday — the day of the theft.

WINDOWS ARE BROKEN

On Seminary Campus. Six windows, some measuring 3 by 5 feet, in Stuart Hall on the Princeton Theological Seminary campus were broken during the weekend by rock-throwing vandals.

In addition, a block of wood was pushed through two stained glass windows in nearby Miller Chapel and one window in Speer Library was shattered. Sgt. John Bellow and Ptl. Bernard Lenhardt responded to the Saturday night call reporting the vandalism.

MAN ARRESTED

Cashing Stolen Check. A 20-year-old Clarksville Road man was arrested last week by police, as he tried to cash a stolen check at the First National Bank.

Charged with two counts of possession of stolen checks is Richard Novakowski, 20. The checks, belonging to a Princeton University Student, had been stolen on campus, police said.

Novakowski was released in $500 bail set by Judge Theodore T. Tams Jr. to await a hearing in Borough court.

JOB IN TOWN

As an independant liberal I am supporting Bob Cawley for re-election as mayor. He merits the enthusiastic backing of all progressives, regardless of party affiliation. Bob represents better government rather than a party line. I'm convinced that he has honorable intentions to help the town and seeks no personal gain.

He is hard-working and intelligent, and, taking a low-key approach, has translated a lot of good ideas into action.

He wants to use his position at Borough Hall to espouse political ideas which are relevant to the day-to-day issues we face. I urge all concerned parents who recognize Bob's commitment and contributions to Princeton's kids to get out and vote for him on November 2.

DAPHNE du MAURIER

This new book from the best-selling author of The House on the Strand and Rebecca includes a novella and four short stories — each one a gripping, masterfully written tale in the distinctive du Maurier manner. The settings range from Venice to the English countryside to Jerusalem at Passover. All the elements of her best works are here: well-drawn, sympathetic characters; tightly woven plots; impeccable historical research and an uncanny, chilling blend of the real and the supernatural.

MARY PERONE - TAX COLLECTOR

MARY PERONE

MARY PERONE — lifelong Princeton resident, businesswoman and Democratic party executive in Princeton and the county. Mary feels strongly that the job of Tax Collector and the Deputy should not be combined. One person should not control the entire tax office. When elected she will be sensitive to the public demand that every tax dollar MUST be carefully spent.

Don Allen Says

CONSIDER THE CHINCHERINCHEE...

That sounds like a line out of Mary Poppins, but actually the chinchierinchee is a very lovely flower from South Africa. If you think that name is hard to say ponder its botanical name, — ornithogalum. I think botanical names are stuffy don't you? — always sound like some dread disease. As in the sentence, "How's your ornithogalum." You'd expect an answer something like this, "Well it's better now, but I still can't eat any greasy foods."

Anyhow, this most unusual flower has a 12" to 20" spike with a raceme (multi-flowered head). Each raceme contains from 50 to 80 florets. When fully developed the head is the size of a medium mum. Each floret is about 1" across, the petals are snowy white around a small green eye.

At room temperature each floret will develop to the very tip of the raceme in 2 to 4 weeks, with a minimum of care. Remove bottom florets as they mature and dry, change water frequently, recut stems occasionally.

We know of no other cut flower that will last as long as chinchierinchee. Now available at anytime from Allen's at $4.50 per dozen.

LIBRARY GETS AIDE

Federal Funds to Pay Salary. A full-time aide for the Princeton Public Library, to be hired at a salary of $5,200 a year, has been approved by the U.S. Department of Labor under the Emergency Employment Program.

On-the-job training is implied in the grant, according to Borough Administrator Robert F. Mooney. Librarian Robert Staples said that no library training would be required for the job, but that he'd like to have someone who can type.

The new aide will be sought in Borough and Township. Mr. Mooney said, The library won't go outside the two Princetons to look for someone to fill the job unless all applicants here are unsatisfactory.

Mr. Mooney and Mrs. Sue Nystrom in the Township Administrator's office decided to apply for the Federal funds and proposed three different jobs, one of them a library aide. The other two requests were not granted.

Both municipalities are continuing to explore these funds, said Township Administrator Joseph R. Nini, especially for joint enterprises like the library, sewer operating committee and so on. Under federal requirements, the money must

Bike Program Continues

The bicycle registration program being conducted by Borough police to combat the large number of thefts here will continue after the initial schedule has expired, said Chief Peter J. McCrohan.

Bicycles of students and adults and Princeton University students will continue to be registered every Wednesday afternoon from 1 to 5 in the gymnasium behind Borough Hall. To date, police have registered 458 bicycles.

go for a new position.

"I am very encouraged!" said Mr. Staples when he learned of the new grant. He was not aware of the Federal decision until informed by the press.

Mr. Staples has asked for additional library workers in each year's budget. This year, he is asking for a half-time clerical worker and a half-time floater whose hours would be divided between research and technical work.

According to Mr. Mooney, the new grant will not affect the library's budget. "We won't lop anything off," he said.

WHY I PLAN TO VOTE

DEMOCRATIC-by Ed Sweeney

As a lifelong resident of Princeton I have personally experienced many of the changes that have taken place. I can remember when you could walk down Nassau Street and greet just about everyone on a first-name basis. Princeton now has a population of over 12,000. Along with this growth many problems have come about. Taxes are so overwhelming it is almost impossible for low and middle income people to own their own homes, and because of the lack of other housing, are forced to move away. The drug situation has reached a critical stage. Traffic congestion and pollution are among the many other areas that must be dealt with.

I sincerely feel the entire Democratic slate, from Ned Schneider for Mayor to Mary Perone for Tax Collector, can deal with the many problems that so seriously affect Princeton. If Princeton is to progress, its leadership must be responsive to all segments of the community.

Ned Schneider, a tenured member of the CCNY faculty, is a homeowner and understands the taxpayers' problems. That is why he has set up a task force of economists to prepare management and budget reforms. He's also concerned about the shortage of moderate priced housing and has called for a more aggressive search for State and Federal housing funds. His concerns are your concerns and he'll get things done.

Councilwoman Alice Male has long demonstrated her involvement with the community. Her business experience, deep concern for our young people, and sincerity to help all segments of our town qualify her for reelection. Alice, along with Councilman John Strange (whom I recommended to fill the unexpired term of Jim Andrews) have established a commission to deal with the problems of the elderly. Their appointments to Boards and Commissions are representative of all groups. John demonstrated his concern for improving our environment by introducing an ordinance to restrict the sale of non-returnable bottles. Alice and John believe our residents deserve a better local transportation system, and are trying to correct our mid-town traffic congestion. Both are working now to serve you. Let's help them to continue.

Mary Perone, candidate for Tax Collector, is a lifelong Princeton resident. Her business acumen combined with her involvement in county and community organizations make her an exceptional candidate. Mary is Chairman of the Mercer County Welfare Board, and has served as a County Committeewoman in the 6th District for 23 years. Her concern for the people in her district is a year round commitment. I have worked with Mary on many projects and I respect her ability to organize and get things done. Mary's dedication and abilities would be a tremendous asset for our community.

I urge you to join me on November 2nd and vote for this fine slate of Democratic Candidates.

SPANISH FOR THE BLIND: Dr. Raymond S. Willis, professor of Spanish at Princeton University, reads a Spanish text requested by a blind student, while assistant director Mrs. Robert Winters of Recording for the Blind monitors. The Princeton unit will have an open house this Sunday.

Topics Of The Town

OPEN HOUSE SUNDAY
For Recording for the Blind. This Sunday from 3 to 6 p.m., Princetonians will once again have the opportunity to see how 300 of their friends and neighbors bring the "sound of knowledge" to more than 8,000 blind students throughout the country.

The Princeton unit of Recording for the Blind, a national volunteer non-profit organization that records without charge books and journals in every area of knowledge, is holding its 13th annual open house at Recording for the Blind headquarters at 100 Stockton Street.

The Princeton unit is a "flagship" unit of this national organization. It ranked sixth of all units last year, recording 3,681 hours — equivalent to 210 books. Given the community's intellectual orientation, this is not too surprising.

No matter how bizarre the request from a blind student, there is someone with the background — however arcane — to record the work on tape. The technique involves a wide variety of volunteer competence: readers, checkers, monitors, duplicators, working with the most up-to-date recording equipment.

Visitors to the open house will see the answer to an obvious question that occurs to sighted people: you can read text to a blind student, even read charts, but how, if you have to read a book on, say, electrical engineering, do you convey the intricate charts that take up a large percentage of the pages? RFB uses raised-line drawings, whereby pencil sketches of the complicated diagrams are transferred to an aluminum plate and engraved on thin plastic. This raised-line plastic can also take braille explanations of the diagram.

RFB volunteers in each department will be on hand to answer questions and there will be refreshments.

FLIGHT TWO LANDS
Group Incorporates. Flight Two, the infant youth organization formed only this summer, is scheduled to incorporate this week. This means salaries for the two full-time and six part-time staff members and insurance coverage all around.

Fund raising continues. Four Flight Two teams have money or pledges amounting to $1,000, promise of a special contingency fund from the Princeton Youth Fund and a $500 grant from an anonymous foundation.

Weekend Events. This weekend is scheduled to begin early with a Wednesday afternoon rap session with Borough Magistrate Theodore T. Tams at 2:30 in the Flight Two rooms.

This Friday at 5, there will be a cookout-soccer at Marquand Park. Saturday night will be Halloween Horror Night, at a place to be announced by posters. Sunday, it's back to soccer again, this time 1:30 at Poe Field.

The Wednesday Rap Sessions so far have involved Superintendent Philip E. McPherson of the Princeton Regional School System; Dr. Patricia Wertheimer, principal of Princeton High School and Larry Ellis, Princeton University track coach and director of special education.

Civic Affairs. A combination cleanup-concert-cookout will be held Saturday, November 6 in co-ordination with the Princeton Conservation Commission and Princeton Township.

"This will be a good opportunity to see whether we can use the enthusiasm generated by recreational activities on community service projects as well," said Steven Cohen, Flight Two Program Co-ordinator.

Crews will collect roadside trash and garbage from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. A free concert in the woods around the Girl Scout Camp will follow, and then will come the cookout.

The Princeton Recreation Department will use volunteers from Flight Two in making a survey of Princeton's recreational needs. The volunteers will be trained in making telephone surveys.

Guitar workshops are being organized, so that young guitarists can learn under skilled players like Dave Werden, Barrie Peterson and Jerry Steele. Anyone interested should call Flight Two, 924-4595 to arrange schedules.

A weekly sheet of community events is being prepared by Kathy Crumlish and Steven Cohen of the Flight Two staff. The sheet, distributed for the first time this week to all schools, will contain lists of events and services of interest to youth in Princeton.

MEETING SCHEDULED

By Recreation Board. The Princeton Recreation Board was scheduled to hold its October meeting this Wednesday evening at 8:15 in the temporary classroom building behind Princeton High School.

The board was scheduled to discuss bids for the outdoor lighting of the Community Park pool complex, resurfacing of the hard surface tennis courts and the progress of a community-wide recreation survey.

It was also scheduled to discuss revisions of its ice-skating policy for Carnegie Lake, in particular the probable reopening of a small portion of the lake behind the Hibben and Magie Apartments. The board in conjunction with Princeton University officials had banned all ice skating east of the Washington Street bridge last winter, after three persons fell through the ice.

FBI TO BE EXAMINED

At Conference Here. A conference on the role of the Federal Bureau of Investigation in American life, first announced last spring during the height of criticisms of certain FBI activities, will draw some 55 lawyers, journalists, scholars and former Department of Justice staff members to the Princeton University campus Friday and Saturday.

The two-day parley, co-sponsored by the year-old Committee for Public Justice, based in New York City, and Princeton's Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs, has been organized as a "non-partisan, objective attempt to understand the structure of the FBI and its role and powers in American society."

The three conference chairmen, who will preside over the five scheduled sessions (morning, afternoon and evening on Friday and morning and afternoon on Saturday), are Dr. Duane Lockard, Chairman of Princeton's Department of Politics, and two members of the Executive Council of the Committee for Public Justice, Dean Burke Marshall, Deputy Dean of the

EDGAR PALMER PORTRAIT UNVEILED: A newly-discovered portrait of Edgar Palmer, who gave his name, backing and imagination to Palmer Square, was unveiled last week in the Nassau Inn. The artist who executed the portrait is unknown. Mr. Palmer, a Princeton University graduate with the class of 1903, was active in a variety of civic and academic affairs following his graduation. He conceived the idea of a modern town square in the 1920s, and devoted years to acquiring the land. He financed the project privately, mostly with his own funds. Shown here are James J. O'Connor, manager of the Nassau Inn with Hackett Stewart, long-time employee of the "Nass."

BIRTHS

Twenty-seven Born. Sixteen boys and 11 girls were born last week in Princeton Hospital.

Boys were born to Mr. and Mrs. Richard Soden, 6 Harrison Lane, Princeton Junction, and Mr. and Mrs. Norman Smitherman, 110-G Northgate Apartments, Cranbury, both on October 17; Mr. and Mrs. Carl Parks, E-8 Wyndbrook West, Hightstown; Mr. and Mrs. George Coates, 47 Gardenview Terrace, Apartment 18, Hightstown, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Baffuto, 43 E. Railroad Avenue, Jamesburg, all on October 18; Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Card, Etra Road, Hightstown; Mr. and Mrs. Peyton Craighill, 17 Maple Street, and Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Schwartz, 531 Nettleton Drive, Hightstown, all on October 19; Mr. and Mrs. James Wollard, Georges Road, Monmouth Junction; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Chung, 321 Glena Avenue, Lawrenceville; and Mr. and Mrs. William Burkhardt, Deerfield Apt., Hightstown, all on October 20; Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Schimbeno, One Mile Road, Cranbury, October 21; Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Gordon, 6 Holland Lane, Cranbury; Mr. and Mrs. George Swancer, 456 Wyckoff Mill Road, Hightstown, and Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Purdy, Kensington Arms, Hightstown, all on October 22; and Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Baldino, 25 Guyot Avenue, October 23.

In discussing the conference, which he emphasized "is being conducted in an atmosphere far removed from the pressures of politics," Dr. Lockard said that the materials being distributed to participants will include the commissioned papers already complete and copies of the 10-page letter FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover forwarded to Prof. Lockard in declining the latter's invitation to send an FBI representative "to attend the conference as an active participant."

Professor Lockard noted that Mr. Hoover in his letter, dated October 7, described the bureau as an efficient and fair law enforcement agency and expressed the hope that the facts he (Mr. Hoover) was presenting would "be considered material during the deliberations of your group and in any public reports which you may issue later."

Space in the Conference Room of Edward S. Corwin Hall, where all meetings will be held and the 55 participants will be seated in a large rectangle, will be allocated for some 10-15 invited "observers", the press and 100 others on a "first come basis."

Girls were born to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hazzard, 12-B Barrett Drive, Kendall Park, October 17; Mr. and Mrs. William MacNiven, 50 Gardenview Terrace, Hightstown, and Mr. and Mrs. Ismael Soto, Westcote Arms, Hightstown, both on October 19; Mr. and Mrs. Michael Winkler, The Pennington School, Pennington, and Mr. and Mrs. Michael Blair, B-7 Abington Drive, Hightstown, both on October 20; Mr. and Mrs. William Wnek, 12 Larkspur Lane, Lawrenceville, October 21; Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Lutin, K-13 Devonshire Drive, Cranbury, and Mr. and Mrs. Hoyt Masterton, 476 Line Road, Belle Mead, both on October 22; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Durkee, 109 Farber Road; Mr. and Mrs. Edward Salley, Princeton Arms, Cranbury, and Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Gunning, Northgate Apartments, Cranbury, all on October 23.

Land Use Study Essential.

To the Editor of Town Topics:
Recent discussions in press reports and among candidates for local office emphasize that Princeton faces, in the months ahead, decisions on the very difficult question of additional housing units over and above those to be provided by Princeton Community Housing and the University. The figures range up to the 6,600 units forecast in the Sternlieb report.

Before any rational determination can be reached, we believe it is essential that a comprehensive, thorough study be made of all the scientific, economic, and engineering factors involved in land use, such as water resources and drainage patterns, soil permeability and erosion characteristics, vegetation, geology of the region, etc.

Only with these background data can an objective assessment be made of both the benefits and costs of further growth in Princeton and its consequences in terms of requirements for importation of water, construction of roads, sewers, schools, and parking lots, loss of open space, increased police and fire protection, and so on. These will inevitably be reflected in the tax rate and the ability of long-time residents on fixed incomes to stay in Princeton, as well as in the habitability of our town.

The citizens of Princeton are entitled to a pledge from Borough and Township candidates alike of their support, if elected, for appropriations to finance the most competent and thorough study that we can obtain of our resources and the demands they can meet.

Join Peace Demonstration.

To the Editor of Town Topics:
As a "demonstration dropout" — one who for the past few months has wondered whether anti-war demonstrations serve any real purpose today — I should like to call attention to an item that expresses thoughts I've been reluctant to face. It appears in a memo about the fall peace campaign published by the War Registers League in New York City, and says:

We are tired of demonstrations: let us be honest. We have walked, petitioned, picketed . . . and somehow the vast structure of the government does not seem to respond. Yet, if we believe in nonviolence, we should recall that drops of water wear away the strongest stone, very slowly, but very effectively.

For many of us the peace movement can be seen as a hobby . . . If we demonstrate, or leaflet, it means a few hours out of our week. And if we get tired we can always just "drop out" and let someone else do the work.

And if the work doesn't get done, we don't notice the difference in our own lives — at least not immediately. (In the long run, of course, the $20,000,000 — two hundred billion dollars — blown up in Indochina, along with millions of people killed and injured, means greater tensions in our own society, higher inflation, more unemployment, greater crime, etc.)

But those are gradual results. However, for the people of Laos, Cambodia, Vietnam, there is no vacation, no escape. Whatever they do, whatever side they support, whether they are active or inactive, still the bombs fall, the random death comes, the steel pellets fall like a hail of death from invisible bombers. We are tired; they are dying.

Tired though we may be, let those of us who long for a complete and speedy end to the war in Indochina speak out, en masse, once again. Saturday, November 6th, has been set aside by national peace organizations as a day of End the War demonstrations in major cities across the country.

Princeton's Peace Center and the local branch of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom have arranged bus transportation to the demonstration that day in New York. (Information and tickets are available at the Peace Center). I urge other "Dropouts" to set aside time and to translate your feelings into actions by joining and supporting the November 6 Peace Demonstration.

Exhaust Testing Asked.

To the Editor of Town Topics:
The League of Women Voters has urged Commissioner Sullivan and the Department of Environmental Protection to recommend adoption of annual auto exhaust testing by the State of New Jersey.

It is projected that such testing would result in a 20-30 percent reduction in auto caused air pollutants. The fact that motor vehicles are a major source of air pollution (approximately 40 percent by weight nationwide), combined with the fact that New Jersey has the highest density of motor vehicles in the United States makes it imperative that this testing program be

The League believes the standards set by the proposed code are not unreasonable, but are ones which any properly functioning vehicle can meet. Estimates that 30 percent of the vehicles will fail the tests only underlines the need for inspection to reduce this source of air pollution.

The League is concerned about the present upsurge of publicized opposition to this pollution control measure and urges all concerned citizens to write to Governor Cahill and Commissioner Sullivan requesting that this program be put into effect.

Mistake Corrected.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

On reading the TOWN TOPICS' printing of my letter (Oct. 21) and on checking with my own copy of it, I was HORRIFIED to realize that I really had written: "women . . . should only have . . . to assume 60 percent or less" (of the responsibility for almost all sexual situations).

Ah ha! My mind Freudian slipped and my pen didn't catch the error. Obviously, the lady I referred to in my letter is not the only one who has suffered "from centuries of training and prejudice."

I very nearly sabotaged the point I started out to make, but I hope I can redeem it by saying that I do believe male-female sexual responsibility should be a shared and equal thing, not a nearly exclusively female burden as it has been in the past, often still is. Sixty, schmixty!

Your Borough Candidates Robert Cawley, Arthur Morgan, and Thomas Cawley, Men Who Have Been There

You know, basically, when you talk about qualifications for leadership in local government, that political activity on the national scene, being against Vietnam before most people knew we were there, working for senators, etc., is not really relevant to the problems at hand. All the goodwill in the world cannot substitute for actual experience.

Your Republican Borough candidates are three men who are well aware of the Borough's problems because they have wrestled with them. They have been in responsible local government positions for several years and — strange as it may seem to recent Princeton residents — progress is being made.

Robert Cawley

- A Fair Housing-Ordinance was passed in 1970 at Bob Cawley's urging.
- Bob Cawley instituted police community relations training and monthly Borough-Township-University police meetings.
- Bob Cawley appointed Charles Cornforth to the Regional Sewer Planning Group. Mr. Cornforth devised an equitable-sharing cost plan that will save Princeton $2.5 million.
- Bob Cawley and Assemblyman William Schluter amended the upcoming bill exempting Prospect Avenue eating clubs from property taxes, thereby saving the Borough tax money which might have been lost.
- Bob Cawley set up discussion groups within the community to open lines of communication.
- Through Bob Cawley's initiative, the University now takes a more active role in the development of downtown Princeton.

Arthur Morgan

Arthur Morgan chaired the Princeton Borough Planning Board when the present master plan and zoning ordinance, the first change in 17 years, was developed.

Arthur Morgan was one of the original proponents of the Borough acquiring Marquand Park.

Arthur Morgan sponsored PCH's Housing Projects as an individual citizen and also through the Planning Board.

Thomas Cawley

Tom Cawley instituted new modern budgeting in the Borough Engineering Department.

Tom Cawley was involved with Engineering Planning on the new Borough Hall and the new Library.

Tom Cawley did engineering lay-out for relocation of Wiggins-Avalon Street.

Tom Cawley was instrumental in achieving for the Borough's hourly employees at the garage and at the plant the same benefits the office workers at Borough Hall already had.

FOR INSTANCE:

Bob Cawley has been an active and effective mayor; Art Morgan has had many years experience in Princeton zoning and planning; Tom Cawley has been Borough engineer for five years.

In local government, few major decisions are made along party lines. The important criterion is experience. Your Republican Borough candidates have the experience. Three guys with a real stake in Princeton's betterment — for all.

Princeton's William Masselos Provides Memorable Night in McCarter

William Masselos, a native Princetonian, returned to McCarter Theatre Monday evening and electrified a Series II audience in its first concert of the 1971-72 season. As a pianist, Mr. Masselos has become one of the foremost keyboard artists in the nation.

His credentials are impressive. He can play with tremendous power one minute and caress the keys with bell-like clarity the next.

His program consisted of works by Brahms, Ives, Schumann and Robert Helps, a contemporary American composer who has distinguished himself in recent years as a fine pianist in his own right, as well as the composer of many works.

Mr. Masselos began his program with a performance of the "Sonata in C Major," Opus 1, by Johannes Brahms. This was one of the early works, composed by Brahms in his 21st year, which he brought with him to show Robert Schumann at their first meeting.

It is a colossal work for such a young man and it is little wonder that Schumann expressed such lavish praise for the young composer's talent, both by word and deed. An article appearing in Schumann's critical music magazine of the time editorialized a prediction that Brahms would, in Schumann's words, be the next great German composer to be compared with both Bach and Beethoven; this when Brahms was only 20.

Varied Moods. The music is a mixture of thick chordal structures, bravura styled toccata-like passages of great brilliance and sheer tenderness. Playing the music at the breath-taking speed he took, Mr. Masselos produced a truly exhilarating performance marked a bit by occasional sloppiness, but exciting from the first bar to the last.

The music never bogged down as it has in slower readings of the work. The few structural weaknesses were suppressed by this dynamic driving interpretation.

Already in this virile music, one hears the marvelous contrapuntal chromatic passages, so unlike Wagner, yet so uniquely Brahmsian. This is a composition that deserves more hearings, and a recording.

MUSIC In Princeton

ed performance by Mr. Masselos would be most welcome.

The second work on the program featured the "Recollections" by Mr. Helps. It is a three-movement composition couched in an idiom that resembles a type of impressionism treated with occasional bits of bitonality.

Whether the work represents an early effort by its composer, I cannot say. It has some poetic moments, and is written with a coloristic approach to piano sonority.

It is quite reminiscent of the colorations one hears in the music of Debussy. The harmonic structure, however, is far from Debussy's harmonic and modal idiom, but unlike Debussy, this music unfortunately lacks structural and harmonic cohesion. It is characterized by a redundancy in texture and mood.

There are occasional attempts at contrast but they are short lived. The general impression one receives from this music is that it is more improvisational than ordered. The music however is pleasant, but somehow, not vital, yet Mr. Masselos's brilliant and poetic interpretation made it live and I doubt whether its composer could have envisioned a more satisfying performance.

Musical Satire The "Concord Sonata" by Charles Ives was composed very early in the 20th century. It probably predates Schoenberg's Opus 11 piano works, and all the major compositions of Bartok, Stravinsky and Webern.

Its fusion of hymn tunes, marching tunes, folksongs from Americana with a brittle form of "wrong notes" dissonance reflect an Ives that was as witty and sardonic as he was musically uncompromising. He spoke (probably with disgust) of the America of his time through his satirical musical portraits of a society that was repete with double standards whichever way one turned, and his musical speech is as relevant and contemporary today as it was 60 and 70 years ago.

William Masselos has performed this work often and his affinity for Ives' music is well known. The music virtually never lets up from the beginning to the end, and though Mr. Masselos performed only two of the four movements of this monumental score, he played with a mastery accorded few of the most gifted.

He structured his performance in such a manner, that despite the intensity and ferocity of the music, the work grew steadily and mightily. He brought forth all the intricate polyrhythm with clarity amidst a density of texture that often did not let up for minutes. His timing of the contrasts, satirical barbs at Beethoven and anyone else that caught Ives's fancy, were brilliantly executed.

This was the kind of program over which one marvels and wishes that all concerts could be on the same high level. Mr. Masselos' reading of Schumann's delightful "Kreisleriana", Opus 16, was the last word in one of the more memorable evenings in McCarter Theatre's history.

Why I Plan To Vote

REPUBLICAN

By Ralph D. Hulit

Ralph D. Hulit, 110 Moore Street, is a native of Princeton. Since 1952, he has been president of Hulit's Shoes, the store that was founded by his father. Mr. Hulit is chairman of the board of Nassau Savings and Loan.

We are very fortunate to live in Princeton. This community contains a combination of qualities and flavor which make it the envy of many of the neighboring towns. Such a reputation, however, is not made overnight. Nor can it be preserved without the active concern and involvement of all of us.

The Republican candidates for Borough office have clearly demonstrated their determination to improve the environmental quality of community life while, at the same time, retaining much of that which has made Princeton a unique and distinctive town in this country.

One of the great needs we have is to develop long-range plans for the entire Princeton community. The Planning Board, of which Art Morgan is a member and was formerly Chairman, has already been very much involved in developing proposals. Mayor Cawley has exercised much-needed leadership qualities by giving enthusiastic support to the Planning Board's efforts which would make the optimum use of the downtown area. The recently announced intention of the University to develop the area around Palmer Square has given added impetus to the revitalization of the town and has underscored the necessity of coordinating borough and university planning. I think that Bob has shown the initiative we need for the future development of town planning.

The matter of downtown development (with emphasis on parking) is one of two top priority programs before the Planning Board. To the store owners along Nassau and Witherspoon Streets, it's of primary concern. The heavy flow of traffic through Princeton, particularly on Saturdays, has reached the near-crisis point, partly because many families are now users of several cars and also because of the influx of a large number of student drivers during the academic year.

More than 60 percent of all the traffic in the borough originates and terminates within the town. While heavy traffic may be a welcome sign of robust economic activity, it may also eventually discourage many shoppers from using the downtown businesses.

Bob is acutely aware of the difficulties posed by this heavy volume of traffic. However, in Princeton we are troubled by more than congestion; we are also faced with undesirable noise levels and inadequate parking facilities. In answer to our urgent needs, Bob feels we should experiment more extensively with the concept of satellite parking lots which are connected by a jitney bus service to the downtown area. The First National Bank is already utilizing such an operation.

Moreover, Bob recently announced the formation of a special panel to investigate noise pollution, and, for some time, he has supported the re-routing of heavy commercial traffic around town instead of through it. But other innovative ways of limiting the scale of traffic in town must be found and I believe that Bob has the intelligence and commitment to do the job.

It may seem, at first appearances, that downtown Princeton is merely the business center of community. But

DEMOCRATIC

By Richard J. Hughes

Richard J. Hughes, 90 Westcott Road, served as Governor of New Jersey for two four-year terms. He is now a partner in the law firm of Hughes, McElroy, Connell, Foley and Geiser with offices in Newark, Trenton and also in his Princeton home. Mr. Hughes is chairman of the American Bar Association's Commission on Correctional Facilities.

The country's current crisis in local government is largely the product of increasing demands for services, imposed on an archaic financial and administrative structure. Governing bodies in many municipalities feel a sense of being overwhelmed by these pressures. We in Princeton have been fortunate indeed in having local officials who set high standards of public stewardship.

But as long as the electoral process provides opportunity for change, there is always the possibility for improvement in the imaginative commitment required to meet the pressures and problems of these difficult times.

I think the election of Ned Schneider as Mayor of Princeton Borough will bring new energy and commitment to meet the problems which we face. I have seen Ned's continuing insight and interest in public affairs. Too, I know him as a loyal and devoted Democrat who understands the importance of the party process in the democratic system.

He has taken his case to the people in a free and open primary. He has indeed earned the right to represent our party.

As a Democrat, I am proud to have Ned hear our party's label. As a Princetonian, I hope to be able to call him Mayor.

Bob also wants to make it the cultural and aesthetic focal point of the town as well. The presence of the University right on Nassau Street will greatly strengthen these moves and contribute significantly to the whole character of the downtown area.

Nevertheless, there are problems, as anyone visiting or working on Nassau Street knows. The need for an anti-litter program which will combine the efforts of both the town and university is obvious and Bob is actively encouraging the development of such a program.

He is also a vigorous advocate of tax reform. At present fewer than 120 senior citizens of the Borough can claim tax relief and Bob feels that the salary ceiling for senior citizens seeking such relief should be raised. Also, he would like to grant relief to senior citizens who rent and thus pay taxes only indirectly. The county tax bite in recent years has been fairly large and is growing rapidly, but Bob is concerned and will try to make sure that the county government is aware of the interests of Princeton.

Housing is another major concern in which Bob has demonstrated his leadership. Princeton has over 120 low-income housing units, but as most people know, the amount

INDEPENDENT

By Anna Larkin

Miss Anna E. Larkin, 66 Williams Street, who writes in support of Mrs. Marie Coan, Independent candidate for mayor, was manager of the Prudential Insurance Company office in Princeton until her retirement.

The Republican mayor, and the Democratic candidate for mayor are two cuts from the same cloth. Ask them the same question and you receive the same answer. No choice here.

I want a choice. The Borough voter wants — and should have — a second answer, a choice of options to resolve some of the depressing persistent problems of the Borough, few of which lend themselves to easy answers, or one answer.

Marie Coan is a long-time resident with roots deep in the community. A devoted Democrat with many Republican friends her thinking is conservative, constructive and consecutive. She has lived and worked with local problems several times longer than the two opposing candidates combined. She has been active in local affairs and involved in the local scene for twenty years.

Longevity and deep community roots are certainly a big plus, in this era of upheaval and turmoil which we are presently undergoing. At this time in our national history we are experiencing great pressures, great trauma, and frantic "trial and error" attempts to resolve our mounting difficulties. Some of our citizens demand instant solutions to eternal problems. Some of our candidates believe they have them.

Regrettable, government — and men — are not that easily made new. Money, and where to get it — minority viewpoints — and are we listening and the common good — what is it? — must be taken into account every laborious step of the way.

Many of us like Marie Coan's approach to responsibility, her deep-seated feelings for the people of Princeton, her compassion, her resolve. She is a devoted Princetonian who lives here, who intends to remain here to work for what she believes is in the best interests of our town, as an interested loving Princetonian.

The "experimenters," the "short-termers," the "laboratory-microcosm" experts will be long gone when Princeton settles down to survey the results of the experiments, while earnest, devoted residents like Marie Coan will still be here, picking up the pieces.

Bob, therefore, is interested in seeing if multi-dwelling units now owned by absentee landlords can be acquired and operated by either public or non-profit private organizations.

TRICK-OR-TREAT

For UNICEF, Princeton Interfaith Council and Hadassah are co-sponsors of this year's trick-or-treat campaign for UNICEF (United Nations' children's fund). Mrs. Jean Arbeiter is drive chairman.

UNICEF boxes for Princeton children to use in gathering contributions on Halloween night are being distributed through several of the Princeton schools. Additional boxes may be obtained from Mrs. Arbeiter at 221 Shady Brook Lane.

After Halloween, full boxes should be returned to any of the pick-up points at the children's desk at Princeton Public Library, Male's Bookshop, the Jewish Center at 435 Nassau Street, or to Mrs. Arbeiter's home.

UNICEF, created by the General Assembly in 1946, has expanded its original mandate to help save young lives to include social welfare, environmental sanitation, family planning, community development, education and pre-vocational training. Its circle of concern includes more than 49,000 health centers and sub-centers, 50,000 primary schools and 2,500 teacher training institutions. More than 575,000 people have been trained to help children in their native countries.

NASSAU CLUB HAS PLANS To Enlarge Kitchen, Parking. The Nassau Club, 4 Mercer Street, will appear before the Borough Zoning Board Thursday evening with plans to enlarge its kitchen and parking facilities. The board will meet in Borough Hall at 8.

The proposed one-story, 1840 square foot addition will be added to the rear of the building. The Club needs a conditional use authorization plus certain bulk variances. The application will be presented by attorney Albert C. Barclay Jr.

In addition, of its own volition, the club will seek to add 19 parking spaces in the rear. To do so, it will need the granting of several variances to regulations concerning the construction of parking.

In parking plans submitted to the board, the club intends to go to the end of the property line and eliminate required screening and plantings. For one of its access driveways, it plans to use part of an existing drive on property next door, owned by Princeton University. In so doing, the club hopes to preserve as many existing trees and shrubbery as possible.

Charles Agle, 247 Elm Road, will seek a rear-yard variance to construct an attached breezeway and carport to his home. He plans to build within 10 feet of the property line; the setback requirement in an R1 district is 35 feet.

William Hussey needs a conditional use authorization to convert a single family residence at 34 Maple Street to a two-family dwelling. The house is located in an R4 zone where two family dwellings are a permitted use, but Mr. Hussey needs three minor bulk variances before he can proceed.

Joseph Mangone and Albino Nini, 76 78 Spruce Street, are seeking approval to enclose and extend portions of a rear porch, adding windows and doors. The board must wrestle with the question of when an enclosed porch remains similar. — Continued on Next Page

Youth Center's Role Commended in Report

An approving nod, with a few parental suggestions, has been given the Princeton Youth Center in a report from the Council of Community Services.

The report had been requested by the United Fund because the Fund, which supports the Center, wanted to know whether any of the Center's activities duplicated those of other Fund agencies. And it wanted to know, generally, how things were going.

"The Princeton Youth Center seeks to satisfy the educational, social and cultural needs of the black community in Princeton," stated the Center's director, Don Evans, in a report late this summer. The Center's all-black constituency has caused the report says, "considerable soul-searching among many of its supporters." It is hard for people who have worked hard for integration to see what might be called a "separatist" Center, and they ask whether such a Center is really in the interests of the black community and the Princeton community as a whole.

Youth Center supporters think that, for the present, the most important thing is to help black people in Princeton "develop their own personal resources and achievements, a sense of their own community and personal pride in these qualities."

Besides, if the black community wants some degree of separatism the community as a whole has no choice but to go along.

What about Drug Abuse? Another question relates to drugs. How much should the Center deal with the problem of drug abuse among young people?

Center staff members know they are not part of a medical or legal agency and aren't drug professionals. But they are consciously educating themselves about what to do where youth and drugs are concerned.

Youth isn't the whole of the Center, however. Staff and board members want to involve everybody, from small children to parents and grandparents in Center activities.

Such involvement, the Center believes, will open communication channels between young black people and their parents. It will also offer more opportunities for discussion about jobs, vocational training, college admission or scholarship aid than might be possible if young people alone were participants in Center activities.

No Duplication. The report concluded that the Youth Center doesn't duplicate the offerings at the YM-YWCA, where younger and more socially oriented students gather.

Also, the Center "supplements and complements" the work of the public schools. "Because of the ability of the Center staff to work with families and with the total black community," says the report, "many students are reached who have not been reached by the schools."

Community House, separate from the Center, concentrates on elementary school children, while the Center works with teens and adults. "Our paths meet," Mr. Evans explains, "in the Middle School and therefore we are able to help a child make the difficult transition from child to teenager."

The report recommends:

- More programs for girls. Youth Center emphasis has been on young men.
- Closer operating ties between the Center and the schools, and the Center and the "Y's."
- More opportunities for instruction, practice and performance in music.

Several individuals commented favorably on the Center. Bill Kight, street worker, said after the report was released that the Center had improved in the two months since he wrote his estimate. He said it now had a particularly fine job program, and had begun successfully to reach out toward young black people who weren't necessarily interested in the arts. He suggested more training of staff in drug-abuse areas.

Others who commented favorably on the Center's role in Princeton were Leslie L.

Vivian Jr., the University's director of Community and Regional Affairs; Mrs. J. Richardson Dilworth, president of the Princeton Youth Fund; Dr. Philip E. McPherson, Superintendent of Schools; Dr. Charles G. Huchet, director of the schools' special Services.

Also Miss Virginia Euell, assistant principal of the Middle School; Mrs. Ethel Thomas of the Princeton High School guidance department; Mrs. Thomas Hartmann, of the Youth Center board; Chuck Stone, director of Minority Affairs for Educational Testing Service and 17-year-old Denise Craig, who said,

"Everybody likes it. I hope they keep having it. They should always have it, because the kids come up and talk to people who know things. It keeps them out of trouble."

In a routine matter, Townsend Common, the 76 townhouse development scheduled for construction at North Harrison Street and Hamilton Avenue will seek a six-month extension of its building permit, which is due to expire November 23. The board is authorized to grant such an extension.

MEET ARTHUR MORGAN

A REPUBLICAN WHO DELIVERS RESULTS NOT PROMISES

For the past fifteen years, Art Morgan has been actively involved in making Princeton a better town to live in . . . for everyone. In one way or another, he has been a part of the major issues affecting Princeton, the state and the nation.

- VIETNAM
Art Morgan has marched, lobbied and given his time and money to community and national movements to end this tragic war.
- ECOLOGY
He wrote the majority report of the Planning Board turning down the North Square "Tower" on ecological grounds. He was one of the original proponents of Marquand Park — the Borough's largest and most popular park — and served on the Park board for six years. He is a charter member of the Stony Brook-Millstone Watershed Association, central Jersey's most active and effective conservation organization.
- POLITICS
Art Morgan was one of the original local supporters of such progressive Republicans as Senator Clifford Case and Governor William Cahill, and has campaigned for both of them.
- EDUCATION
Art was a member of the committee which merged two local private schools into what is now Princeton Day School, the state's largest private school. He served as vice chairman of the school board for three of its formative and most difficult years.
- HOUSING
Through church groups and through private initiative, Art has been instrumental in providing private financing to Princeton residents so that they can afford to buy their own homes. He has sponsored PCH's housing projects personally and through the Planning Board.
- PLANNING
As Planning Board Chairman, Art pushed through the first revision in the Borough's Master Plan (and zoning ordinance) in 17 years. This plan encourages multiple housing and conversions of older homes as a step toward solving Princeton's housing shortage.

Arthur Morgan knows Princeton. He believes Princeton is a good place to live because government and private citizens work together. We think his experience and concern can be of inestimable value on Borough Council. We think you will agree and hope you will support him.

The Canes share an idea that is, today, distressingly rare. They think that wood furniture should be made of wood, brass lamps of brass, and that plastic is best restricted to toothbrush handles and toys. And they've done something about their idea: assembled several hundred fine upholstered pieces, museum re-creations, hand-crafted accessories, and custom-made furnishings, and put them all under one roof at Cane Farm. Mrs. Thomas, Mrs. William Stewardson, and Miss Beryl Robichaud will report on their recent separate trips to the campus. Particular emphasis will be on discussing plans for Open House in Princeton, a bi-annual house tour scheduled for Saturday afternoon, April 29, 1972.

Proceeds from previous house tours have been used toward furnishing the reception area of the new art building on the Mount Holyoke campus, as well as for student scholarships. The 1972 Open House will be under the chairmanship of Mrs. James J. Chandler and Mrs. Stewardson. All college alumnae, including those new in the area, are invited to attend the meeting on the 17th.

YWCA International Club: 8:30 p.m., Thursday, at the Y. A musical evening is planned with members performing selections from Handel, Bach, Corelli, Mozart and others, as well as Brazilian folk songs and flamenco guitar selections.

Lawrenceville Grange No. 170: 8 p.m., Fireman's Hall, Phillips Avenue. Officers for 1972 will be installed at this meeting.

Gathering at 10 a.m. at Sixth Avenue from 36th to 42nd Streets, the participants will march uptown to Central Park where there will be a rally at 1 p.m. in Sheep Meadow. There will be speakers whose backgrounds vary from politics, sports and labor, as well as the armed services and the peace movement.

The focus of this rally is to serve as part of the Fall Peace Offensive and to stand as a reminder of the continuing deaths in the Southeast Asian war. The National Peace Action Coalition is demanding as immediate cessation to the hostilities.

In conjunction with this peace action, the W.I.L.P.F. has chartered round-trip buses to leave from Palmer Square at 9 a.m. that Saturday. Tickets can be purchased for $3.50 at the Fund for Peace Education, 163 Nassau Street.

Rhoda Lewis, coordinating chairwoman of the local group of W.I.L.P.F. urges all interested in attending to make bus reservations early so additional buses can be chartered if necessary.

University, seminary and high school groups are being invited to participate in this peace action. Additional information can be obtained by calling Mrs. Lewis at 921-3239 or Pat Roberts, Fund for Peace Education, 924-6161.

MAYOR FLOYD and COMMITTEEMAN HARTMANN NEED YOUR VOTE. THEY HAVE EARNED IT

Democrats Jim Floyd and Tom Hartmann have been in the majority on Princeton Township Committee only since January.

HERE ARE SOME OF THE INITIATIVES THIS MAJORITY HAS ALREADY TAKEN

TO SAVE MONEY:

procedures for joint purchasing by Borough, Township and school district.

TO HELP THE PROPERTY TAXPAYERS AND TO PROVIDE NEEDED HOUSING:

a new zoning ordinance to permit rental of rooms by homeowners, and limited conversion to apartments.

TO COMBAT DRUG ABUSE:

creation of an intergovernmental coordinating committee with township, borough and school board membership.

TO COMBAT POLLUTION AND TRAFFIC CONGESTION:

creation of a joint transportation commission now developing plans for external parking areas and internal bus service.

Mayor Floyd and Committeeman Hartmann want to continue their work to make Township government more responsive to ALL the people of Princeton Township. They pledge to continue to work to ease the burden on every Princeton taxpayer and at the same time not hurt Princeton's environment or cut back on the municipal services all Princetonians need.

If Polls Created Bandwagon Effect, Dewey Would Have Been President

Charles Roll is the tall, young, slightly ruffled president of Political Surveys and Analysis, Inc. of 20 Nassau Street. He has been involved in close to 100 polls for candidates since 1962, undertaking assignments for both Republicans and Democrats, including Nelson Rockefeller in New York and the New Jersey State Democratic Committee. He is also co-author with Albert Cantril of "Hopes and Fears of the American People," published this year by Universe Books.

Talking the other day about the use and misuse of political polls, he said, "Nothing is more transitory than 'trial heat' figures. If there were such a thing as the handwagon effect, Governor Dewey would have won."

He noted that there is criticism of polling to determine whether a person should run for office. "This is a justified criticism if it keeps qualified people out of the running."

"In April 1966, when Rockefeller was going up for a third term, the survey showed 2-to-1 against him. By the middle of October, Rockefeller and O'Connor were neck and neck. Rockefeller won the election by 6.5 points!"

Wide Swings Possible. Trial heat polling, he argues, is "like taking a picture of a horse race at the far turn. Until the week before the election, disregard the polls. Anything can happen — and the polls are not always carefully done."

Mr. Roll is against the use of opinion polls designed to help solicit campaign funds. "Unfortunately, this is done, particularly in early polls which convey an impression of a broad base of support for a candidate."

Mr. Roll is presently involved in polling for Senator Howard Baker in his re-election campaign in Tennessee. He believes that opinion surveys can be used in a highly responsible way by the candidates:

"One, to uncover the basic concerns of the people. In polling for Rockefeller, we found that the concern lay with crime and lawlessness."

Sign Posts. "Polls can be used to uncover areas where the candidate is not well known, either geographically, or by age groups, or among men or women. In the campaign of Ogden Reid for Congress, polls in the lesser populated area of the district showed that while he was ahead,

Political Analyst Charles Roll

there was an inordinate number of people who were undecided between the two candidates.

"It seemed wise to spend more time in this area. The result was that Reid obtained 30 percent of his winning margin from that sector, where only 15 percent of the GOP vote was!"

Polls can show trends over the time of the campaign, the impact of major events, and the sources of opposition from different segments of the population. He recalls President Johnson's visit to New York in 1966 when he spoke briefly in favor of O'Connor. This temporarily halted the Rockefeller trend — especially among the grade school educated people from low income households, especially among the non whites."

As a candidate weighs the major issues, polls can tell him how the issues stand in the public's estimation. During the Hughes-Dumont campaign in 1965, Political Surveys & Analysis found that of all the ways to raise funds for the state, the New Jersey public overwhelmingly favored a state lottery.

A state sales tax was the least opposed tax program, and a state income tax was the least favored. "This is probably why we have the lottery and the sales tax today."

He believes that a candidate needs sound survey data. "I don't think he should be influenced by the intuitive judgment of clubhouse politicians, or by newspaper columnists, or by special interest lobbyists. The columnist may reduce a complicated problem to an easy either-or issue, while a candidate with reliable survey information will probably know more than he does. Special interest lobbyists can present themselves as representing the public interest when they have only their own axes to grind. The surveys should firm up a candidate in being independent of someone's erroneous, sometimes selfish, interests.

"There's a place for polling in politics for the good of the country," he concludes.

MINI-CLASSES PLANNED

By YWCA. New Mini-classes for November planned to meet the needs of women and girls, are now open for registration at the YWCA.

"Facts about Football for the Female Fans" will be a four-week activity group at the Princeton YWCA beginning Tuesday, November 2 from 11 a.m.-12:30 p.m.

The class will meet as an informal discussion group — aimed to inform the female football fan on the rules of the game. Bunny McCandless, the "coach" of the group, will help women to learn the difference between touchdown and touchback.

A mother-daughter holiday craft workshop for girls and women will meet each Tuesday afternoon from 3:30 until 5. Sessions will run from November 2 through December 5.

For all who need assistance this year in money-saving ideas for Christmas, the projects planned by Oddlaug Kvamen and Nancy Baker are fascinating and imaginative. A fee will be charged to cover instruction and supplies, with a special rate for girls through high school.

With the modern woman's desire to learn both the old and new skills, Hand Spinning will again be offered by the YWCA. A five week session will begin on Thursday, November 4 from 9:30 until 11:30.

To allow individual instruction, Greta Tobie the instructor, has limited the class enrollment, however if there is sufficient demand another class will be organized. There is a class fee, as well as a small additional charge to cover materials (spinning wheel rental, if needed, is included).

Nursery services will be available for children between the ages of 1-6, during mini-classes. Further information — Continued on Next Page

ASIAN EXPERT TO SPEAK

At YWCA's "Open End," Dr. John Lewis, Dean of the Woodrow Wilson School and an expert on Asian Affairs, will be the guest speaker at the next meeting of "Open End" at the YWCA on Wednesday, November 3 at 8:30 p.m.

Prior to his appointment to the Woodrow Wilson School in 1969, Dr. Lewis served in the United States Embassy in New Delhi as Minister-Director of the U.S.A.I.D. Mission to India. He recently paid a return visit to India and Pakistan with Senator Edward Kennedy.

Dr. Lewis will discuss the current crisis in East Pakistan against the background of post-war and post-partition developments in India and Pakistan.

His talk, which is part of the "Open End" series, sponsored by the World Fellowship Committee of the YWCA, is an attempt to foster a deeper understanding between peoples of different nationalities.

COME WIN A PRIZE

In Halloween Contest, Princeton Shopping Center Merchant's Assn. will sponsor a Halloween costume contest this Saturday at 10:30 for all children in the area. Entrants will assemble and parade on the shopping center's mall.

Prizes will be awarded in two age groups, four through six-year-olds, and seven through 10-year-olds. Prizes will be $5 gift certificates.

Judging will be based upon the originality and the effectiveness of the costume and the manner in which the child carries out the costume's theme. Free candy will be given all children who enter the contest.

NEW OFFICER ADDED

To Township Police Force. The appointment of Renn W. Kaminski, 26, of 10 Reading Street, Pennington, as a probationary patrolman for one year brings the total number of men and officers on the Princeton Township police force to 29.

Officer Kaminski is currently attending basic police training class conducted by State Police at Sea Girt. Discharged in May, 1970, from the Army where he served as a weather technician, officer Kaminski is a graduate of Trenton State College. He majored in American Government and history.

The previous officer to be appointed to the Township force, Peter J. Savalli, 29, of Trenton, returned last week from Sea Girt where he was a member of the 128th Police Training Class.

Officer Savalli is a former electronics maintenance man at Princeton University's Forestal Labs on Route 1. He was appointed a probationary officer on July 1.

NEW TOWNSHIP POLICEMAN: Renn W. Kaminski of Pennington has been appointed a probationary officer on the Township police force. He is the department's 29th man.

In another departmental change, a 14-year veteran on the Township police force has been assigned to the newly-formed Traffic Bureau under the command of Sgt. Anthony Nini.

As part of his new training, Ptl. Michael Kopliner, 19 Durann Avenue, will attend in February the Traffic Institute at Northwestern University in Evanston, Ill. Ptl. Kopliner joined the force in August, 1957.

DRIVERS ED BEGUN

At Princeton High. After months of planning and discussion, a complete driver education course has become a reality at Princeton High School.

Seniors who have not as yet obtained their driver's licenses, but who had successfully completed their theory class last year are currently receiving "behind-the-wheel" instruction from certificated personnel. Instruction is being given to the seniors in order of age, with older students receiving priority.

All junior class members are being offered the driver education theory course on an elective basis. The theory course is a pre-requisite for the "behind-the-wheel" phase of the course. This instruction will be given from November 1 through December 23 during regularly scheduled periods, five days a week. This will be the only opportunity for the juniors to receive this instruction.

Upon satisfactory completion of the theory instruction, and upon reaching the age of 16-1/2 years, the student will then be able to apply for the "behind-the-wheel" phase. Sophomores will be receiving their theory instruction as the year progresses in their regularly scheduled health period.

A century of priceless designs in one inspired collection

Henredon fine furniture

There is no greater treasure than English 18th-century furniture. And Henredon's 18th-Century Portfolio reflects its splendor. From the curved details of the Queen Anne period to the crisp lines of Sheraton, each piece is faithfully crafted with the care and artistry of yesterday. Like the Chippendale-style secretary of lively walnut veneer with drop-front writing shelf, the graceful Pembroke table with intricate inlays of satinwood and ebony and the gracefully curved upholstered furniture that meet today's comfort standards.

Come today and be inspired yourself by this inspired collection — for every room in your home.

The 73-year-old economist, a native of Somerville and a lifelong resident of New Jersey, has become the second recipient of an award bearing the name of a former Commissioner of Social Security and given periodically to those "who have made outstanding contributions to the achievement of economic security by all citizens of the United States."

The award has been presented to Dean Brown, who retired in 1967 upon the completion of 46 years of service on the Princeton Faculty, "because of his major impact on the development of Social Security. He was one of those who helped shape the original program as a member of the Committee on Economic Security back in 1935 and has since served on every succeeding Advisory Council."

Navy Lieutenant (J.G.) Donald S. Sieja, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley S. Sieja, 149 Terhune Road, is serving with Fighter Squadron 33 aboard the aircraft carrier USS Independence which participated in the NATO Strike Fleet Exercise Royal Knight in the Eastern Atlantic.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Rubens A. Cervera of Miami, formerly of Princeton, he was graduated from Macalester College this year where he was a Ralph L. Smith Freedom Scholar and a member of Phi Alpha Theta, international honor society in history. Until January he is living with his wife Barbara Jean, at 1532 Grand Avenue, St. Paul, Minn.

from internationally-known painter, Thomas George to a collection of notable illustrators, cartoonists and photographers whose creations have reached this country and the world through various commercial media. They include pottery, prints, paintings and drawings created here and abroad by members of the community.

At Gallery of Fine Art, Thomas George, in his outstanding career as a painter, has been inspired by nature and refined its forms into very simple and individualistic paintings. Beginning with finely wrought representational drawings, the artist develops and expands shapes, forms and harmonies found in his very literal subject. He then translates these visual relationships into a collection of softly-hued, carefully balanced paintings that might be called non-objective save for the fact that the artist retains all the intricate balances and weights of his original themes while expressing himself in a personal and a nostalgic manner.

The current exhibition represents ten years of Tom George's work and traces his perceptions from the harder edge of earlier forms to his later work which is softer and more intricately developed. Throughout the collection the colors are mainly soft and cool and the shapes are simple.

The contrast of small forms with major volumes is very exciting, and is further enhanced by unusually painted textural areas, which, when played against the stark, flatly painted areas, the heightens dissimilarity and the relationships between forms.

This collection contains very large and very small paintings, as well as those of more moderate dimensions. The very small works are exceptional in that they embody all the vigor and impact of the large paintings, often in an area that does not exceed several square inches. Also notable in both the larger and smaller works is the unusual balance, the extra line and the slightly turned form that duplicates nature in its effect, though not in its aspect. The result is visually stimulating and, as in nature, combines peaceful harmonies with exciting and vigorous spatial relationships.

Paintings by Thomas George are included in major museums and galleries throughout the world. His works are part of the collections of the Museum of Modern Art, the Whitney Museum, The Tate in London, Bridgestone in Tokyo and many others both in the United States and abroad. He has held one-man exhibitions in many museums and galleries as well as participating in group exhibitions.

At Gallery 100, Ilse Johnson's display of pots and bowls is a fine demonstration of the potter's art. Large pots and taller footed bowls are included in a harmonious collection of shapes and colors. Mrs.

Johnson has made good use of her clay colors and earth tones and contrasted them attractively with blue glazes applied in interesting patterns.

In the gallery at the rear, Irene Halsman exhibits "Women and the Wheel," an entertaining and artful collection of line etchings. The "Women" of the title are a group of fat, whimsical creatures who might be described as happily naked, rather than nude. They are all engaged in amusingly pursuing various activities involving the wheel. Merry charioteers, fire engine drivers, cyclists, skaters and other bare ladies in transit are gleefully represented in this series.

Transport is not the sole interest of Miss Halsman's ladies. Women and Music accompanies the Wheels series. Cellists as well as other musical types are busily engaged, unclad, in plying their musical arts.

At Stuart Galleries. The use of art as a means of communication is ably demonstrated this month at the Stuart Gallery. Examples of artwork as a vehicle to make people laugh, sell a product or tell a story are displayed in this collection of Princeton area artists whose works find their way back to the public through commercial media.

Magazine covers, cartoons, record jackets, posters and photography are among the many manners of commercial art as demonstrated by these nationally-known artists.

Watercolor, pencil, acrylics and pen and ink are used ably and creatively in the various works displayed. Many pieces are familiar.

How Big Was The Flood of August 28?

In its October newsletter, "Watershed News" the Stony Brook-Millstone Watersheds Association has come up with some interesting statistics on the amount of flooding caused by tropical storm Doria the last weekend in August.

In parts of the lower Millstone Valley, the Association reports, "the flood may have been a 200-year event." At Blackwell's Mills, where records have been kept since 1921, the worst flood of record (Sept. 21, 1938) reached a stage of 15.29 feet and discharged 18,300 cfs (cubic feet per second).

The August flood hit a peak of 18.68 feet at Blackwell's Mills and discharged 30,000-plus cfs. On Stony Brook in Princeton, where the 1955 flood reached a stage of 11.90 feet, the August flood measured 14.26 feet.

The U.S. Geological Survey is still analyzing data gathered during and after the storm, and should have a report ready by February 1972. The Association points out that flood data will be useful in flood plain zoning, drainage planning, flood insurance programs and a variety of community land use decisions, and reminds everyone that "future flood losses in our area will be in inverse proportion to the attention given these data."

as are the media through which they have been seen. This heightens the perspective of seeing several different works, often in different materials by the same artist. An opportunity, unfortunately infrequent in commercial art.

JURIED SHOW SCHEDULED

By Art Association. The 1971 Juried Prints and Drawings Show of the Princeton Art Association will be held November 3 through December 6 at McCarter Theatre.

The show includes original prints and drawings; entries must be ready for hanging and each artist may submit three entries. Entry forms will be available when works are brought to the Princeton Art Association at 3 Spring Street.

Receiving dates are October 28 and 29 from 9 to 3 and October 30 from 9 to 12. There will be an entry fee of $1.50 per picture for members of the PAA and $2 for non-members.

Judging will be by Clare Romano and John Ross. Clare Romano has had over 20 one-woman shows and received many major awards and grants. She is represented in the National Collection of Fine Arts, the Metropolitan Museum, Library of Congress and the New Jersey State Museum. She is on the faculties of Pratt Institute, Pratt Graphic Art Center and the New School.

John Ross has had over 30 one-man shows and is represented in the National Collection of Fine Arts, the Joseph Hirshhorn Collection, the Metropolitan Museum, the Library of Congress and the State Museum. He is chairman of the art department of Manhattanville College, and is on the faculty of the New School.

Works accepted in the juried show have been invited to participate in an exhibition at the IBM Dayton plant. That show will run from December 11 through January 11.

Further information may be obtained by calling the PAA office (921-9173).

BARBARA SMOYER

JOHN KUSER

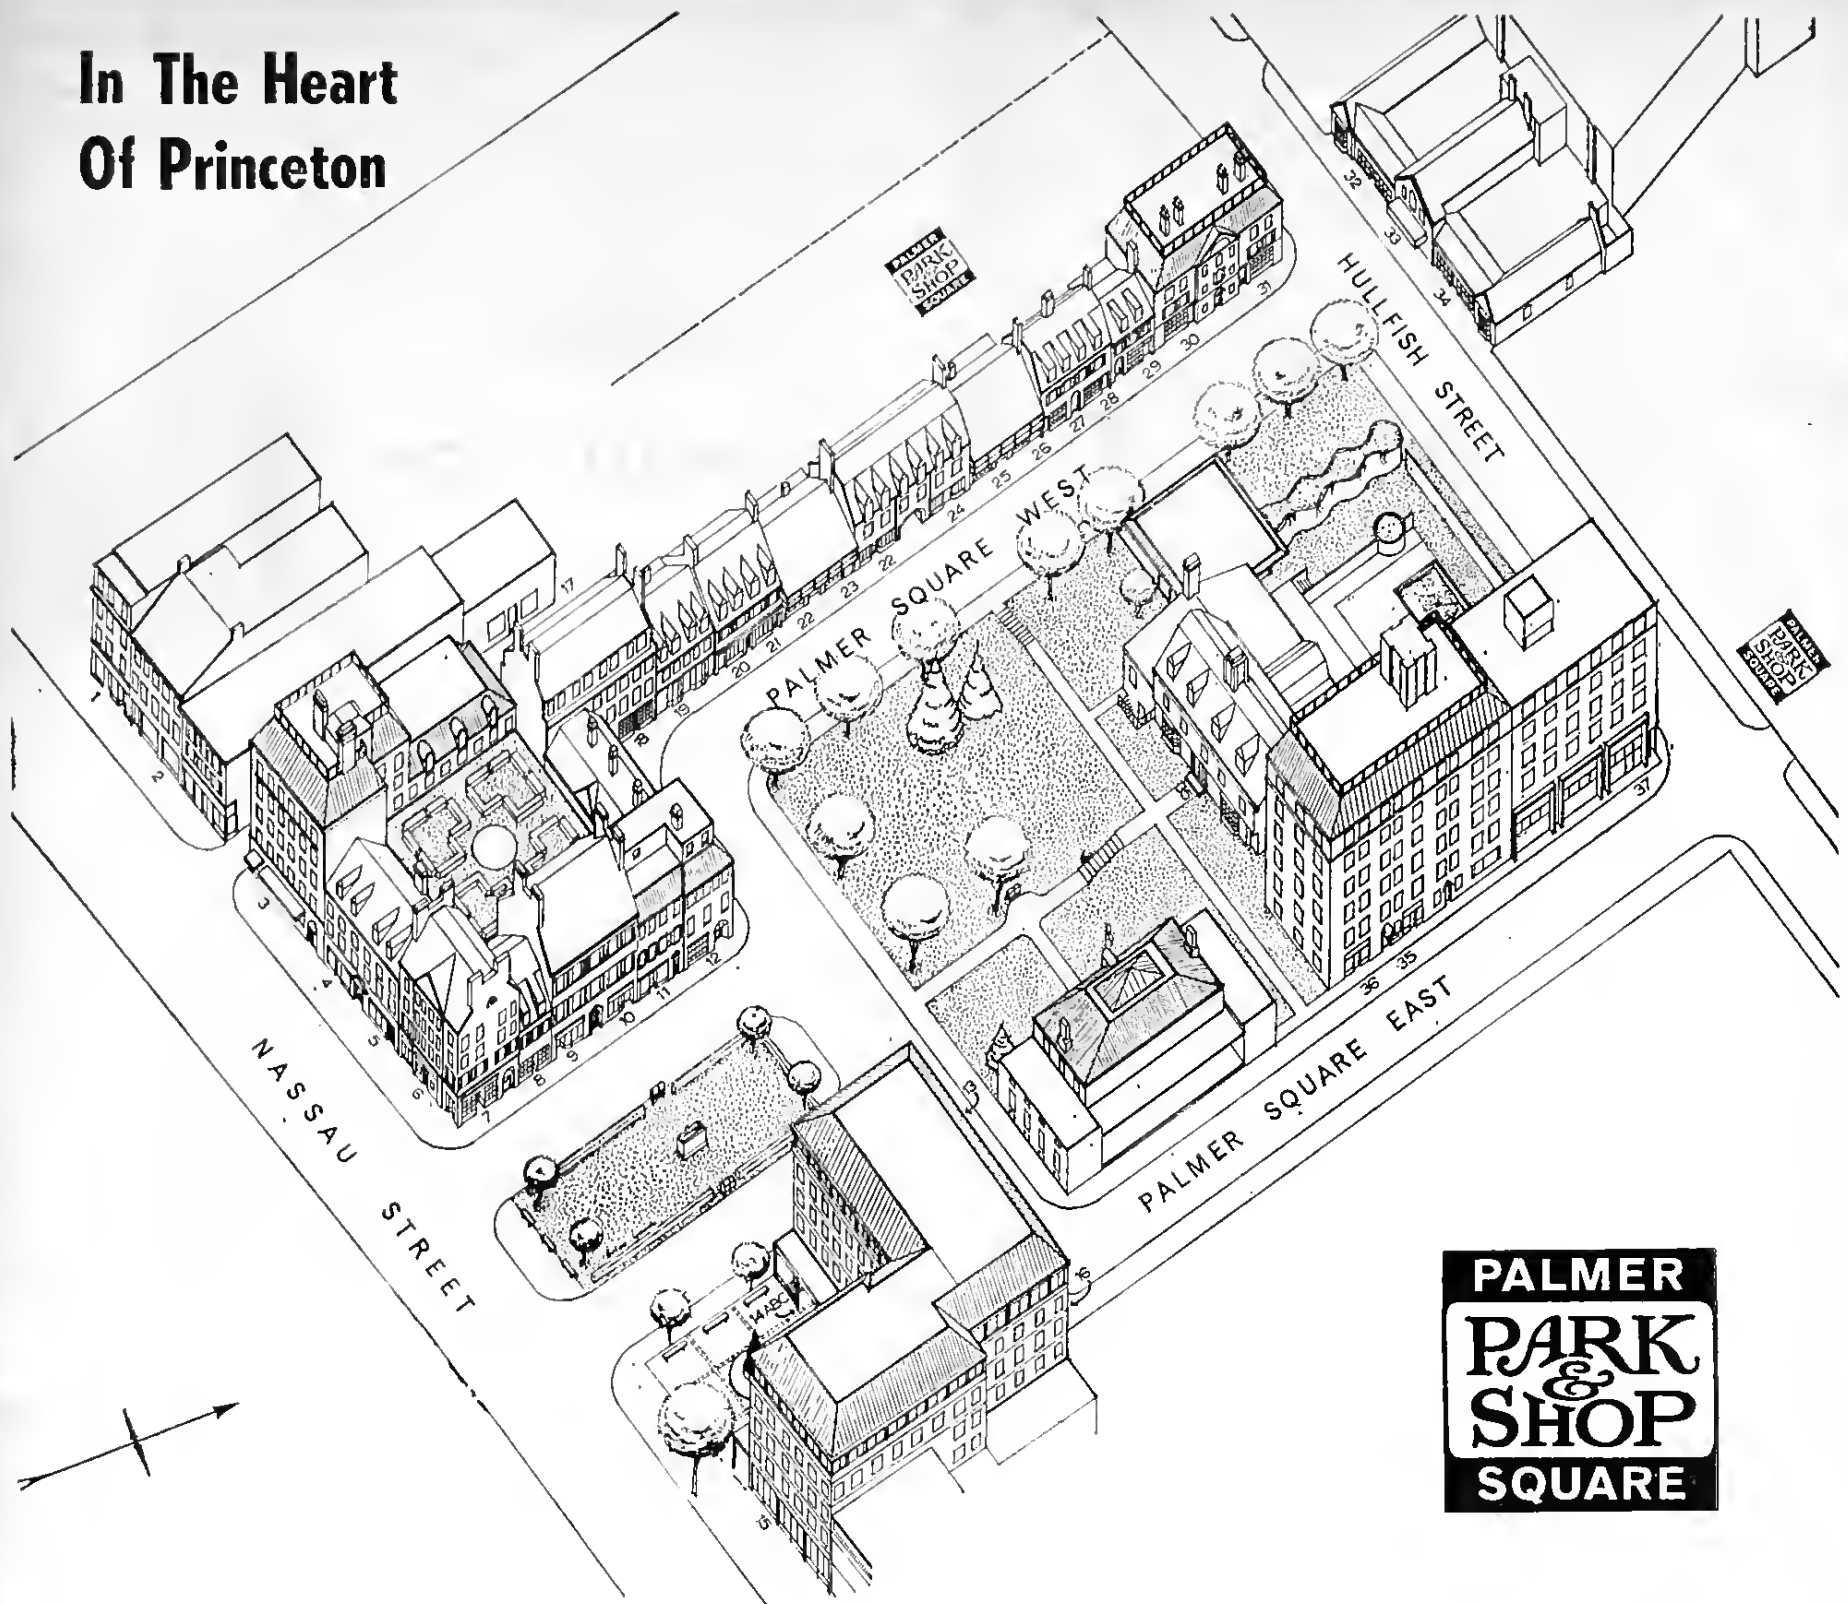

Every single vote in Princeton Township is of special importance this year. Depending on which candidates are elected, one of the other party will choose our next mayor, have the majority vote, and set the style and philosophy of government that will significantly affect the life of our community for years to come.

We hope you will vote for Barbara Smoyer and John Kuser. They fully merit your confidence and your vote. But whatever your choice we fervently hope you will indeed vote so that the outcome is truly representative of the entire Township. Several recent elections have been decided by as few as a dozen votes in each election district.

Your vote counts. Use it!

A DAY FOR THE DEFENSE: "They kept us in the ball game until the offense got moving," said Jake McCandless of the defensive platoon, many of whose members here spill Penn quarterback Tom Pinto (10) for a yard loss. Tigers Eye Brown as Step-Ladder to .500 Mark

If Princeton's football team can maintain the momentum it has generated in its past two games against an opponent whose 0-5 record invites a let-down, it will draw even with the .500 mark Saturday for the first time in six weeks. Hoping for an upset to salvage a season that could see it lose them all, Brown will come to Palmer Stadium looking for its first victory in the series in 17 years. The kickoff is set for 1:30.

Injuries Increasing. Princeton will seek not only to run its long-sought victory string to three, thus creating a good foundation for its climactic November games, but to avoid further depletion of its thin manpower through injury. Having lost a valuable defensive tackle before the season began when Carl Barisich underwent knee surgery, the Tigers experienced a second such blow last weekend when veteran linebacker Phil Barbaccia suffered a similar fate. A senior, he will not play here again. In addition, injuries of a lesser nature were incurred in last week's 31-0 victory over Penn by tight end Fred Ecclestone, defensive tackle Pat Shannon, and the two fine running backs, Hank Bjorklund and Doug Blake. Of the four, Ecclestone's problems are the most serious—he re-injured the bone in his foot which had kept him sidelined since mid-September.

Blake twisted a knee and had to be helped from the field but will play against recent years. Last season at Providence, the game was only a few minutes old when Gary Bonner of the Bruins and Dennis Burns of Princeton were ejected for fighting.

32 Points in Defeat. Brown has been going with senior Bob Zink as its quarterback and he has hit on about 50 percent of his passes. Junior Nino Moscardi also saw action last week in the wild 42-32 loss to Colgate. Ends Chip Regine and Nick Albertson are their primary receivers. Bonner and fullback Tom Spotts are the leading ball carriers, although the quarterback often runs with the ball in the option series that the Bruins use. They have been averaging around 250 yards a game—a far cry from the 400-plus generated by the Tigers.

Defensively, Brown has been unpredictable. Week after it held league-leading Dartmouth to 10 points, it yielded 42 to a Colgate team that did not score here until the fourth quarter. Rhode Island, Yale and Penn are the other teams which have whipped the Bruins.

Belief was at Providence that a turning point in Brown fortunes should be at hand with this year's personnel. It has not materialized, however, and if the Tigers keep their eyes glued on the job at hand Saturday, they can build the stepping stones for a long-range shot at victories which completely eluded them last November.

Brown, Bjorklund's back was wrenched but was not cause for particular concern. In addition, tackle Bill Brown and guard Emil Deliere have sat out action this month, so there are furrowed brows on the Tiger coaching staff as they look ahead to games with Harvard, Yale and Dartmouth. The situation is not improved by awareness that Brown invariably plays a highly competitive, physically-bruising game against many opponents, particularly Princeton.

Ill feeling has been exhibited between the two squads in

QUICK LOOK AT BROWN
OFFENSE: Out of balance. Lacks both power and breakaway runners. Passing a threat but has not been consistent.
DEFENSE: Better against Ivies than in non-league games. Can be expected to play rugged game against Tigers.
CHIEF ASSET: Hopes that Princeton will take an 0-5 team too lightly.
CHIEF PROBLEM: Overall shortage of topflight personnel blended with lack of depth keeps Bruins in perennial role of Ivy League's basement tenant.
TYPE OF ATTACK: Triple Option

PENN OVERPOWERED
After Disorganized Start.
 If Princeton plays another opening period as sloppy as its first 15 minutes against Penn, it is unlikely that it will go into the second quarter no worse than 0-0. The Quakers fumbled three times but their hosts lost the ball once that way themselves, stalled out on the three-yard line later and then threw an interception to keep the give-away contest on an even keel.

Thereafter, however, sophomore Jim Flynn again gained in stature as a quarterback. He was 10 for 15 on the day for 102 yards, opening up the defense sufficiently so that Bjorklund and Blake ran with steady authority.

SIX MORE FOR THE TIGERS: Flanker back Kerry Brown about to put a firm grasp on 26-yard touchdown pass (thrown by halfback Hank Bjorklund. Second period play gave Tigers 14-0 half-time lead.

Hank added 129 yards to his total, pushing his three-year figure to 2035-85 more than Dick Kazmaier's mark that had stood for two decades. It is interesting to note that whereas Kaz started all 27 games during his career, Bjorklund did not achieve status as a regular until the Yale game of his sophomore year—and then only because of a shoulder injury to Brian McCullough. Bjorklund also sat out last year's game at New Haven with an injury. Hank added a versatile touch to his fine day, completing a 25-yard scoring pass to flanker back Kerry Brown. He also scored once himself—on a 27-yard jaunt around right end for the Tigers' fourth TD.

Blake First to Score, Blake got the Tigers out of their rut with a spectacular 73-yard touchdown run mid-way through the second quarter. He broke one tackle just beyond the line of scrimmage and used a good block by Kerry Brown to go the distance.

After Bjorklund's pass made it 14-0 at the intermission, sophomore Walt Snickenger set up the third TD with a kickoff return to open the second half that began a yard inside his own end zone and ended eight yards short of Penn's, where he was driven out by two defenders. Blake took the ball over two plays later and Bjorklund's score just before the period ended made it four for the day.

Late in the game, sophomore Bill Newman booted a 35-yard field goal, which was, Jake McCandless said, "farther than I thought he could kick it." The placement specialist was five-for-five against both Colgate and Penn, counting the three-pointer, a welcome improvement after the difficulties in this department against Rutgers and Columbia.

Newman's 1,000 batting average was kept alive by an oddity that ranks as a first in Palmer Stadium's 57-year history. He stubbed his third effort, and it came down right by the cross-bar of the Penn goal post.

As it did so, a Penn defender leaped up and batted it away. Puzzled officials delayed any signal for close to a minute, finally indicating failure.

Out on the field (contrary to the rules) went McCandless to let them know how wrong they were. After further consultation, Referee Peter Barth reversed himself, raising the Tigers' total to 21. Since McCandless had kept them from making an error which would have altered the final score, they overlooked penalizing him 15 yards for going on the field.

FOOTBALL FACEOFF: What appears to be a faceoff with a football between Princeton High School wingback Tom Hofgesang and Bridgewater-Raritan's Andy Murdock is actually a pass from Joe McGuin, PHS tailback, which Murdock tipped at last second. Nothing else worked for Little Tigers, as Golden Falcons won, 37-8.

Technically, it was a "one-point safety." It is awarded when a defending player illegally touches a free ball on a p.a.t. after it has entered the end zone and before it has hit the ground.

Defense Superior. While Penn was troubled by injuries to quarterback Tom Pinto and at least two of its top running backs, the job that Princeton's defensive unit did on the Quaker attack was nonetheless impressive. The losers were held to 203 yards, 10 completions out of 25 passes and a net of minus 5 on the ground for the second half.

The conversion from line-backer to defensive end of junior Mike Kincaid has meant a great deal, as has the particularly fine play at linebacker of junior Joe Parsons. He leads the team in tackles and added to his margin Saturday.

McCandless is still concerned about the way the offense tends to sputter, and he still prefers not to name either Flynn or Rod Plummer as his regular quarterback. The latter is expected to be ready to return to action this weekend.

The Princeton coach does appear to however, to be convinced that his defense is now extremely solid. "Off the way they have played in their last three games," he said, "I would hate to have to run against them."

SEASON GETS LONGER

For Winless Little Tigers. It is highly unlikely that a sound Princeton High School team — both in team spirit and experience — would have defeated Bridgewater-Raritan West High School Saturday, but the present Little Tiger squad, ripped with racial dissension, (see Topics of the Town) offered little more than a workout for the powerful Golden Falcons.

Enroute to their fourth victory in five games, the Falcons, finely drilled and three-deep in depth, ran up a 31-0 halftime lead and used their reserves the entire second half. The final score was 38-7.

Ahead for PHS was a Saturday game at Perth Amboy — scheduled for a 2 p.m. kickoff. "Scheduled," because unless the showdown among seven assistant football coaches with the school administration over what the coaches feel was an unsatisfactory handling of a team discipline problem was resolved in time, there was a possibility that the game would be cancelled.

Perth Amboy is usually a power to contend with. This year, however, it has, like PHS, failed to win a game. Both teams will be trying hard to nail down that elusive first win. For the Little Tigers it is a must: a defeat will make an 0-8 season a strong possibility. In the ten years Dick Wood had been coaching, no Blue and White Squad has ever failed to win at least three

Falcons Score Early. Bridgewater, led by 6-3 200-pound quarterback Guy Fanelli, took the opening kickoff and drove 65 yards in eight plays for the opening score. It scored again just before the end of the first period on a beautiful

Laurence Patterson is an Experienced Tax Collector

That's more than could be said for ANY Princeton Borough tax collector — Republican or Democrat — elected the past few years. Laurence Patterson has a certificate of qualification from Rutgers. This means that he is a PROFESSIONAL.

In spite of what you may have heard or read, the office of tax collector is an ELECTIVE office. For over 15 years, Laurence Patterson has been the full-time paid professional who has backstopped five part-time elected Borough tax collectors, both Republican and Democrat. This year he is running for the big job — a job that is elective. Since taxes have to be collected, doesn't it make good sense to elect a professional to do the job?

ful fake into the line by Andy Murdock. Murdock was gang-tackled on the three by three PHS linemen — but he did not have the ball. Fanelli had lateraled it to Dave Hobbs, who skirted around end untouched.

The Falcons put it out of reach by scoring 16 points in a two-minute span just before the end of the half. After a 38-yard aerial from Fanelli had carried to the two, Bob Porcario slanted in off tackle for the score, with 2:25 remaining in the half.

Princeton couldn't get anything going for its part and Steve Sanford dropped back to punt. Center Jeff Lewis sailed the ball over Sanford's head. As he tried to pick it up, he kicked the ball and had to fall on it in the end zone for a Bridgewater safety. Twenty-five seconds left.

PHS then had an option: kick off or punt. Its decision to kick off was a mistake. Ned Fry's boot was gathered in on the dead run by Hobbs. He went right up the middle, turned it on and raced 65 yards for the TD. Not a single Little Tiger laid a hand on him. Fanelli ran the extra point over. Two minutes, eight seconds, 16 points. It was that kind of day.

For the first half, PHS had minus nine yards rushing to 130 for Bridgewater. It managed only three first downs to Bridgewater's nine.

PHS Starts to Move. PHS took the opening kickoff for the second half and aided by a roughing the passer penalty and a pass from Joe McGuinn to Gil Spencer, who made a nice run after he caught the ball, the Little Tigers had a first down on the two. On the next play, fullback Bobby Wiesbecker, hit hard, fumbled.

McGuinn, the embattled PHS tailback who, every time he made a completion, seemed to be thrown for a loss on the next play, refused to quit. He passed 17 yards to Dane Black, who carried to the Falcon five. Steve Sanford, also playing fullback as well as quarterback for this game, carried it over for the Little Tigers' only score. Fry booted the extra point.

After reviewing films of the game, PHS coach Dick Wood remarked that Bridgewater's blocking was almost textbook perfect. Princeton's was as bad as Bridgewater's was good, he added. A bright spot was the defensive play of guard Frank Caponi who also recovered a Falcon fumble.

Tackle Tony Federico, co-captain of the team, injured his leg in the second period. He sat out the remainder of the game with an ice pack on his knee. But, after a careful examination by a doctor afterwards, Federico was given the green light to play Saturday.

MITCHELL PREP NEXT

For Winless PDS Eleven.

There is some good news and some bad news to report this week about the Princeton Day football team, as it continues its search for its first victory of the season.

The good news is that the Panther offense more than doubled its entire point output for the season in the game against Wardlaw, scoring 14. In four previous games it had managed just six points.

Unfortunately, at the same time, the defense gave up 58 points, and PDS suffered its worst defeat in its five year history of varsity football surpassing a 40-6 beating administered by a powerful Chestnut Hill team in 1968.

Mitchell Prep does not figure to give the Blue and White as rough a time, but the Panthers who will again be on the road, will probably rate as underdogs in the 2 p.m. Saturday contest.

Last Saturday's game against Wardlaw was a classic example of what happens when a good passing quarterback comes up against an inexperienced secondary. Wardlaw's Joe Gatti fired scoring passes of 68, 40, 3, 37 and 45 yards, and his mates scored three more on the ground.

Wardlaw had a 16-0 lead in the second quarter, before Paul Funk returned a kick-off up the middle for an 80-yard touchdown. Dave Wagenseil kicked the first of two extra points, and PDS was down by 16-7. Three more tallies before the half, gave Wardlaw a 36-7

This way to save money.

Dial calls yourself.

Here is a pointer on how to save money on out-of-state phone calls:

Dial them yourself without the services of an operator.

No matter what other state you call (except faraway Alaska and Hawaii), it always costs less when you dial station calls yourself. Especially on weeknights and weekends when savings are big.

For example. During weekend bargain-calling times*, a 3-minute coast-to-coast station call costs $1.40 plus tax—if you use the services of an operator.

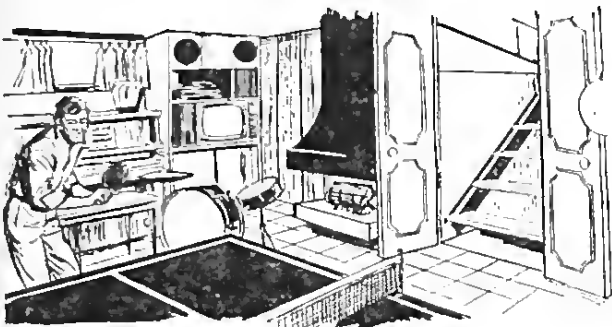

But the same call is reduced even more—way down to 70¢ plus tax—if you dial it yourself without the services of an operator.

So, dial your own station calls without an operator. And save.

lead and the ball game right there. The Wardlaw coach, however, felt he needed another 14 points in the third quarter, before putting in his reserves.

The PDS offense put together a 40-yard drive in the third period for its other score, with Rob Gips going over from three yards out.

HUN AT PINGRY NEXT

After 27-0 loss to Delbarton, Hun will play its third road game in a row this week, hoping it will do better than it has in the first two.

Friday at 3:15, it will be at Perkiomen, which like Hun has lost more than it won this season. Saturday at Delbarton, Hun was blanked 27-0 and the week before it lost at Pennington. As a result, Hun's record is 2-3 — the first time the Red and Black has lost two in a row since 1966.

"We didn't play very good football," commented Hun coach Dave Leete after Delbarton's third victory in five games. Hun had one scoring opportunity in the second quarter when it drove to the two-yard line but the home team held on downs.

Delbarton scored three of its touchdowns on passes of 17, 18 and 42 yards from quarterback Mike Mauriello to Don Schroeder. The first gave Delbarton a 7-0 halftime lead. Ken Cullen ran the victors' final TD over in the third quarter from 15 yards out.

WEISS IS HONORED

Named Coach of the Year. Irwin W. Weiss, coach of field events at Princeton University since 1957, has been honored by the New Jersey College Track Coaches Association with selection as Coach of the Year.

Formerly assistant director of Physical Education in the Princeton Public Schools and for more than 25 years a collegiate football official, Weiss began his coaching career in 1928 at Princeton High School and led his track team to 110 consecutive victories and to five state championships. Later, as field events coach at The Lawrenceville School, he helped to guide a Red and Black team to the state title and to that school's only win to date over a Princeton University freshman squad.

On the international scene, Weiss was weight coach for the U. S. decathlon entries in the 1963 Pan American Games at Sao Paulo, served as international coach at the 1965 Maccabiah Games, and coached the jumpers on the 1969 U. S. National Team which defeated the British and Russian units.

REGATTA SPOILED

Thrown for Loss by Weather. The weatherman put on the worst possible show for the Carnegie Sailing Club's biggest fall weekend of racing as it staged the 16th annual Touchdown Bowl Regatta Penguin class sailboat races Saturday. The wind refused to blow and the 29 boats, largest turnout in many years, drifted around the course in two frustrating races.

Capturing first place in both races was Cliff Campbell of Toms River, who also won last year's regatta in 25-knot winds. Bob Kunz of Indian Harbor finished second for the day, while the third-place cup went to John Dykstra of Cooper River. Ed Metcalf of the Carnegie Sailing Club finished in fifth place to win the home fleet trophy for the best performance by a Princeton area sailor.

On Sunday, six Sunfish skippers braved heavy rain and gusty winds to continue their battle in the Club's regular fall series races. After six races, Bob Holzman captured first place, barely edging Jack Kunz and John Hopfield who finished second and third.

last week at the Recreation Lanes.

George Reynolds rolled the high game of 170. Mike Diamond (153), Jeff Petrone (151) and Ed Volz (148) followed.

In the hotly-contested Business Women's League, where four points separate seven of the 10 teams, Dail Forsyth of University Cleaners claimed the high single game of 181. Marilyn Silvester of Princeton Golf rolled 179-171, while Ida Whittenour of Tamasi Plumbing had a 176 — 65 pins over average. Others: Sue McManimon, 175; and Irene Tufano and Betty Pirone, both 170.

Nini Chrysler is the new league leader with 26 points. Four teams have 24 and two have 22 points.

PETERSON IN FIRST

In Midget Football, Peterson Construction combined a strong running game with a solid defense to win its second game of the season, 30-0 over First National Bank, and remain in first place in the Princeton Midget Football League. In an earlier game, J.P. Cleaver opened its season on a successful note, breaking open a scoreless contest in the second half to defeat Sibson & Co., 18-0.

Alternating Keith Phox and Tony Lemar on end sweeps, and Jay Budd and quarterback Hawley Waterman up the middle, Peterson gained 213 yards. Lemar personally accounted for 104 yards of this total, and scoring four touchdowns. Waterman got the last score on a quarterback sneak.

Bob McAvonia, Jordan Paul and Kieran Esposito stood out for First National on defense, but could not prevent the rout by themselves.

Peterson, however, shutdown all the way on whatever offense First National was able to muster, permitting no first downs and minus 25 yards rushing. Doug Ferguson, Chris Price and Fain Hackney never saw any daylight as they were constantly hounded by Lemar, Jerry Moyer, Waterman, David Wilson, Budd and Woody Clark, who also came up with a pass interception.

Much closer than the 18-0 score would indicate, the Cleaver-Sibson contest was determined by two key plays. Midway through the third quarter Cleaver's quarterback Tony Opperman dropped back to pass on third down and spotted his wingback Adam Bierman in the clear downfield. His pass was perfect and Bierman outran his defenders for a 55 yard touchdown.

On the next series, Sibson's quarterback, Bobby Jones, rolled out around left end for a fine gain, but fumbled the ball in the air as he was tackled. The ball was picked off by Cleaver's Pat Ward who broke loose for a 35 yard touchdown run.

The defenses took over again.

Wins Hole In One — Again

For the third time in the past four years, Princeton taxi driver Tom Moore has won the Hole-in-One contest sponsored by the Princeton Patrolmen's Benevolent Association.

Tom preserved his uncanny record with a tee shot 10 inches from the pin, on a 130 yard hole — shortened because of high winds. He won a color television set.

According to Ptl. Frank Boccantuso, chairman of the event, Moore's daughter told him not to come home without a television set. Last year, he also won a color TV and earlier, a set of clubs.

Otto Marconini of 24 Maple Street won the second prize of a black and white television set when his shot landed 15 inches from the pin. Some 200 participated to help the PBA raise funds for youth programs it sponsors.

to prevent any further scoring until late in the game when Sibson fumbled on its own four-yard line. On the next play Charles Waaben cracked over center for the final score.

Both teams showed some strong running backs. Charlie Phox was a workhorse for Sibson picking up 63 yards in sweeps around the right side, while Kelly Robinson and Phil Billington also contributed valuable yardage.

Ron Wood and Charles Waaben shared the running duties for Cleaver with help for wingback Tom Bolster. Opperman made several fine runs on roll outs for Cleaver.

On defense John Sapoch, Billington, Richard Naylor and David Miller formed a solid unit for Sibson. Cleaver was led by Bierman, Jeff Raser and Waaben.

NEW SEASON AT HAND

For Paddle Tennis. The paddle tennis season is once again at hand and there is room for individuals or couples in the leagues playing on the Community Park courts.

The sport is played with four contestants. The only equipment needed is a wooden paddle, an orange rubber ball, sneakers and warm clothing.

Last year there were three leagues, a men's league that met on Tuesday or Thursday evenings and Saturday mornings; the women's league that met during weekday mornings and the couples' league that played on Sunday evenings. They played once a week for an hour.

The players ranged from beginners to skilled performers. There were inter-team competitions and competitions with other clubs. More than 150 people were part of the league last year.

If you wish to join, call the Recreation Office at 921-9480 or sign up on the sheets posted on the bulletin board near the courts behind the swimming pool.

$300,000 GIVEN

To University by Kresge. Princeton University has received a $300,000 grant from The Kresge Foundation to help develop facilities for work in the life sciences.

The grant from the Detroit-based foundation helps make possible major, long-needed renovations to two buildings on campus — Guyot and Eno Halls — in which biological studies and the core of the life sciences are conducted.

"The coming revolution in biology and related fields promises to be as great as that which occurred in physics and mathematics during the past half-century," President Robert F. Goheen said.

"We are deeply grateful to The Kresge Foundation for its support of Princeton in this area," Dr. Goheen went on to say, "and are conscious of both an opportunity and a responsibility to play a part in this revolution in the life sciences. As it has in the past, The Kresge Foundation has displayed a like awareness of the importance of such commitments."

A great increase in interest among both undergraduates and graduate students in the life sciences has overtaken the facilities of Princeton's Department of Biology. Guyot Hall was built shortly after the turn of the century, Eno Hall in the mid 1920's.

The renovations, and reallocation of space made possible by them, will enable Princeton to create new library space, laboratories, classrooms, and office facilities for planned additions to the faculty in this discipline. These renovations should accommodate the growth of the Department of Biology over the next five to ten years at minimum cost.

The Kresge Foundation has already supported Princeton in various ways. Earlier grants were made toward construction of the New South Administration Building, the mathematics-physics complex adjacent to Palmer Memorial Stadium, and the relocation of Princeton's famed Gest Oriental Research Library in the current headquarters of the Department of East Asian Studies in Jones Hall.

ROSZEL, FIRTH HONORED

By Republicans. West Windsor's former mayor, Malcolm Roszel, and Township Committeeman Eli Firth were honored by the West Windsor Republican Club for more than 40 years of service to the community.

They are now members of the township committee and have decided not to seek reelection this year.

Nearly 200 people attended the dinner-dance at Princeton Country Club. Mayor Melvin Firman cited the many committees on which the two men have served and praised their devotion to the township.

He said of Mr. Roszel, "The

INDEX UP OVERALL

For Third Quarter. The majority of the indicators are showing plus signs for the third quarter in TOWN TOPICS' business index.

Savings and checking accounts are both up 2% over the second quarter, while loans jumped 13%. Over a 12-month period, all three categories registered even more significant gains. Savings were up 19%, checking accounts, 10% and loans, 16%.

Postal receipts climbed 16% from last quarter, helped by a rate rise which went into effect in May. Parking meter receipts traditionally fall off during the slower summer months of July and August, but they are up 4% over a year ago from $35,280.05 to $36,617.57.

New Housing starts are down a bit in the Township, as are building permits, but permits shot up from 57 to 99 in the Borough. Both show rises over the same period a year ago.

After a slow second quarter more property changed hands in the Borough, the number of transfers rising from 17 to 54. The Township stayed about even.

Telephones in service registered a 6% increase, but new car sales are off 9% from the second quarter. Actually they have fallen off on the third quarter for the last couple of years by around 5 to 10%.

ATHENA STUDIO OPENS

At 20 Nassau Street, Athena Studio will open its doors at 20 Nassau Street and offer a complete photographic service.

The man behind it all is

George W. Manolakis, a lifelong resident of Princeton, who has been dabbling in photography on a free lance basis for the past 25 years. Now, after a couple of abortive starts, he plans to go ahead and do what he has always wanted to do.

On his second floor studio, Mr. Manolakis will offer portrait work, passports, advertising and fashion photography, as well as commercial and industrial. He will also cover formal weddings — or candid — in natural color or black and white.

"I pride myself as a creative and artistic photographer," Mr. Manolakis said.

His studio — named for his wife, Athena, will be open full time each day, but Mr. Manolakis prefers to work by appointment. His number is 921-2010.

growth and development of this township during the years of his terms of office will remain as evidence that a man of character, who placed the township's interests above his own, led the municipality during the period when it changed from farmland to a viable suburban municipality.

"The effects of his leadership will long be seen as we grow and eventually become a city because the foundation of that future city has been based on careful planning, well-considered and thought-out ordinances and sound fiscal responsibility. The master plan under which we have been working has set the stage for the growth that will occur."

LEAF COLLECTION SET

In West Windsor. The West Windsor Township Committee has announced the Township Road Department will initiate a leaf collection program this year.

The collection period will be the month of November with a possible extension to the first week of December if necessary. The program will also include the cleaning of inlets and catch basins of accumulated debris to assure their satisfactory operation.

Leaves are to be raked into piles in the gutters, where they will be collected by vacuum equipment. The Township Committee wishes to remind residents that leaf burning will be banned throughout the State after January 1.

The schedule of pick-up follows:

Mondays: Princeton Junction —Wallace Road, Scott Avenue, Borosko Street, Alexander Road, Berrian Avenue, Lillie, Montgomery and Harris Road; wooded areas of Benford Estates.

Tuesdays: Cranbury Road, Millstone Road, North Mill Road, Belfair Avenue, Piedmont Drive.

Wednesdays: Penns Neck — bounded by Mather Avenue, Fisher Place, Pierson Avenue and Manor Avenue.

Thursdays: Harrison Street, Logan Drive, Glenview Drive and Canal Road.

Fridays: Jacob Drive, Meadow Run Road, and Birchwood Court, Dutch Neck, South Lane and Oak Lane.

If inclement weather prevents leaf collection on the scheduled day, the department will attempt to come back as soon as possible thereafter.

There will be no leaf collection on Tuesday, Election Day, or Thursday, November 25, Thanksgiving Day.

this figure may rise to about 2,000 students by 1976.

Princeton provides assistance to undergraduates through combinations of student employment, loans, and scholarship grants. With growing numbers of students requiring aid, however, the University now finds that it can no longer supply needed aid funds in their entirety. Indeed, even with this latest gift, the University estimates that it must obtain over the next five years an additional $5.3 million in spendable funds for scholarships and another $3.6 million in capital funds for student loans.

Two major factors have contributed to these enlarged needs for student aid. First, there has been a sharp rise in costs, including tuition, room and board, books, and miscellaneous fees. Second, the student body has become increasingly diverse for, through strengthened contacts with a wide variety of secondary schools, Princeton has been able to communicate more effectively that overall ability, rather than personal finances, is the prime requisite for admission. Today approximately 10 percent of each entering class come from economically disadvantaged backgrounds. Traditionally, endowment income had covered the bulk of the student aid budget. However, with increases in both the number and percentage of students receiving financial assistance, it became necessary for the University to make appropriations from general funds to meet student aid sts. Over the past three fiscal years, Princeton used a total of $888,000 from general funds to support undergraduate scholarships. This year, alone, an estimated $640,000 from general funds will be required. The University has consequently given top priority in its long-range development programs to obtaining outside assistance for student aid.

LET'S NOT SACRIFICE THE LOVELY CHARACTER OF PRINCETON TOWNSHIP

At the League of Women Voters meeting last week, one candidate for Township Committee, a Democrat, said that the present minimum residential lot size in the Township must be broken down to provide more low-cost housing.

The other Democrat said the only way the Township could control property taxes would be to become a Teledoro, where most property is industrialized.

We think there are better solutions to our problems—solutions which don't destroy the desirable character of the Township, as these proposals almost surely would.

HOUSING AND ZONING

Princeton Community Housing is about to build 240 low-and-middle-income units for rental to persons and families having Princeton connections—those working here or presently or formerly living here. Princeton University plans to build a similar garden apartment complex of approximately 300 units, the occupancy of which will be similarly controlled.

We believe our residential zoning laws should be left intact until these projects are given a chance to meet the needs of "Princeton's own."

Uncontrolled housing on small lots will go to the highest bidder—not necessarily those with Princeton connections—and will bring more children to our schools without producing enough taxes to pay for the added school and municipal costs. Currently, the taxes on even a $60,000 house do not pay the cost of two children in our regional schools.

IMPROVING OUR TAX BASE

We don't think it is necessary to make the Township another industrial town to control our property taxes.

We have 400 acres of unused Township property which is zoned for office and research facilities. If elected, we propose to make a concerted effort to bring desirable organizations into this area which will provide substantial tax-producing rateables. This effort should be a joint one between the landowners in the office-research zone and the Township, with professional guidance.

We believe the desirable characteristics of Princeton need not be sacrificed.

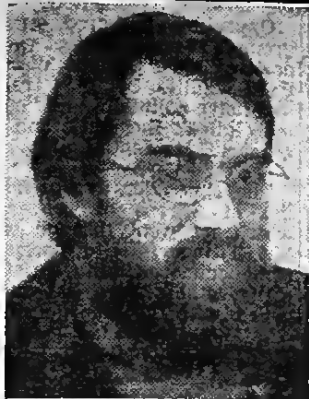

We believe that with positive thinking and action on Township Committee, we can meet the requirements of our growing population.

"TURF" FOR FLIGHT TWO

by Barrie Peterson

Specific factors present last spring led to the birth of Flight Two: closing of certain University facilities to non-students; the success of the Salamagundi youth group with Trinity Church's Fr. Gwin in running dances; and the last days of the "Catacombs."

With the help of the University, Mayor Cawley, the United Fund, the schools, Chamber of Commerce, Jerry Saunders of the Y, Rev. Bill Kight, the Recreation Department and others, the Youth Concerns Committee carved out "turf" owned by Youth and Flight Two.

What have we learned since leaving the YCC nest six weeks ago?

It has taken a while for us to realize the full implications of not having a financial, legal official cover. Furthermore, because of the environment we have grown up in and our nostalgic memories of the free-floating summer, we have well-developed prejudices against structures and we have hesitated to take decision-making authority.

But we learned that meetings of 40 people can better air feelings than make final decisions. We learned that insurance and tax-exempt status is impossible without incorporation which is impossible without Trustees and written operating procedures. We've learned that simple procedures can help facilitate expression of feelings and decisions; that the buck for taking responsibility has to stop with someone.

So we have created procedures and structures only as experience has shown their need. This learning process is as important to youth as the finished product.

It was groovy to be in Flight Two over the summer. It still is — but we're also now more serious about what we're doing.

A central concept which has run through Flight Two's growth has been relationship. Freedom to create activities has always been related to responsibility to work for them. This is radically different from youth demanding something of adults or from adults giving youth something they've designed into which youth have to either fit or boycott. Ripping off each other is quite different from mutually beneficial relationship.

Three examples show how Flight Two strives to build relationships where individual interests are on the table and arrangements helpful to all are negotiated:

No money goes into events; rather they are self-supporting to the tune of over $200 a month. When admission is charged, it is not prohibitively high and the event is of high quality. At all events, maximum participation of all is a goal usually attained.

Secondly, decisions are a process of open discussion with checks and balances. Monday night's meetings solicit ideas and form task forces to plan upcoming events. Thursday afternoon's internal workings meetings are for talking over feelings on how things have been going and can be improved. Staff, however, has final responsibility for Flight Two events and internal workings.

Thirdly, relationships have been formed along town-gown lines. Recently, we worked with the Inn College Council to co-sponsor an event where there was shared responsibility and mutual gains and built in controls. We also use off-campus offices owned by the University.

From my work with Flight Two and before as a seminarian at the Catacombs and with Salamagundi, it is clear that "parenting" is shifting from busy nuclear families to backup institutions such as schools, the Y's, churches, Scouts, recreation department. Fine programs and facilities are offered, but this is not what many affluent Princeton youth are deprived of.

What the Flight Two experience shows is that some of our most capable youth need the opportunity to take responsibility for their individual and group actions; the "turf" to grow together. They need to create a context within which to raise each other, to learn skills, to learn how adults manage (or don't manage) things — and thus become adults themselves. Tremendous personal growth has taken place. Summertime staffer Mardi Considine writes us:

"Flight Two was the most important chapter in my life so far."

Mike Friemon, also away at school, wrote:

"Flight Two has taught me how to work with girls my age and to respect them even if it means admitting that some are smarter than I am. Ahem!"

This new youth-defined "turf" provides complimentary support for both the pressured families and the traditional institutions while building relationships with both.

As Flight Two takes its place within the Princeton complex, our experiences can continue to interact with families and institutions. In this relationship, hopefully all of us can be transformed for the better, thus improving Princeton as a community and as an environment within which to grow up, work, learn, . . . and live.

ECOLOGY in Princeton

Water, Water Everywhere? Though water in most of its forms is one of the most exciting and beautiful things on earth, the phrase "water supply" turns most people off almost as much as the word "sewer." Though we are not in the same boat (an inappropriate metaphor perhaps) as water-short California; and though you may find it incredible after sloshing around, virtually needing a boat, during the past months, our area water supply is limited.

Thanks to our endless source of information, the articulate and knowledgeable Ian Walker, Director of the Stony Brook-Millstone Watersheds Association, we hope, by describing two local situations, to make the facts more interesting than the words.

Situation No. 1. A national blue-chip firm has an option on a sizeable tract in Hopewell Township for a proposed distribution and office center, which could mean about 150 area jobs and up to $100,000 in taxes for the Township. However, the underwriters require a water supply at the sustained rate of 60 gallons per minute for domestic use and proper fire protection.

So far, wells on the tract have produced as little as 5 gallons per minute, as much as 30 — a far cry from the required 60. This is not an isolated case in an area which lacks the water needed for heavy industries and where even the modest supplies for light industries are limited.

Situation No. 2. In the early '60's McGraw-Hill built its own small sewage treatment plant and pond in East Windsor. Treated effluent was released into the pond, where it was stored and used during the summer to spray the company lawns (to the consternation of some who thought it was "new" water being used.)

The company physician, at that time a Trustee of the Watersheds Association, made a thorough investigation and found no health problems whatsoever resulting from the spraying. However, when the local sewer plant was built, McGraw-Hill was required to close its own plant and hook into the municipal one, which dumped the effluent into the Millstone River.

Consequences: instead of re-using its water and utilizing the nitrate and phosphate content on lawns which benefit from them, McGraw-Hill must use its water only once before pumping it, along with its nitrates and phosphates, into streams, lakes, rivers and, finally, the sea.

Most of these, especially our lakes, already suffer from a manmade excess of these minerals. (Carnegie Lake, downstream from East Windsor, is not alive and well and living in Princeton.)

Re-using Water. These two situations and others like them prompt questions and suggestions from the Watersheds Association. First and foremost: CAN WE AFFORD TO USE WATER ONLY ONCE? If the answer is no (and it is), will we then bring to bear the imagination and willingness to search for ways of re-using it?

For instance, would it be possible to design a large industrial park in an upper watershed locale; put in a treatment plant to cover surrounding areas; use the effluent in summer (when streams are low and easily pollutable) for irrigation, industrial processes and fire, discharging any surplus in winter when streams can more safely accept it?

Another thought: how about creating lakes in the upper watersheds where wet period runoff can be stored and released into streams during dry periods? This could keep stream water level more constant and might permit the building of secondary sewage treatment plants instead of the much costlier tertiary plants.

Water in the ground and in streams varies from season to season. We need water for homes, agriculture, industry, wildlife and recreation. How do we manage and stretch it as far as possible to meet as many needs as possible at the least possible overall cost?

The Ostrich Syndrome. The easy answer is to build a reservoir "somewhere else," trunk water from someone else's watershed, then dump it far downstream after one use (following the old ostrich syndrome — like throwing your garbage over somebody else's fence.) But after we've drained some neighboring rural water supply, what then? Where will our neighbors get water for their future needs? (Where, incidentally, with all that water necessary for the proposed Hackensack Meadows complex come from?)

There is no final answer, says Mr. Walker. As long as the area grows, there must be an endless series of daily decisions each one affected by what has been done previously. To make those decisions we need the combined know-how of experts in various fields — engineering, biology, water chemistry, geology, economics — and to insure that the decisions are made, we need a concerned government and an aware citizenry.

We are lucky locally to have all three. So, scientists of the area, how about turning out and turning on (the water problem) together? And, local lawmen and laymen, let's increase our knowledge and keep our concern flowing along with our water!

Nature vs Culture. Another much-to-be-said-on-both-sides area controversy is underway. The N.J. Historical Drama Association is a non-profit, tax-exempt organization formed to produce a historical drama with music about the 10-day period following Washington's Crossing of the Delaware, including the Battles of Trenton and Princeton, to be presented in connection with the N.J. Bicentennial.

A feasibility study ordered by the group states that the Department of Environmental Protection has agreed to furnish a site in Washington Crossing State Park for a 2,500 seat amphitheater to house the production.

We talked to Joseph Truncer, Director of Parks and Forestry in the Department of Environmental Protection and were interested both in his comments on the proposed project and how the Department operates in such situations.

He told us that he supports the intent of the Drama Association; believes that the planned production would be a valuable cultural asset to the State; and feels that the proposed site is, obviously a historically appropriate one.

No Commitment Made Yet. BUT, says Mr. Truncer, 1) the Department has made no commitment for the use of any part of the Park for the theater; 2) the State Attorney General must pass on the legality of all Department projects, and this has not been done; 3) no agreement would be made prior to the preparation of a master plan covering the future development of the Park from all aspects; 4) the State Treasury Department must approve and appoint all consultants hired by the Environmental Department to prepare plans and advised on projects; 5) a consulting firm has been hired to prepare a master plan for the Park; 6) the Department will work with the Washington Crossing Citizens' Association in preparing the plan, holding a public hearing on it while it's still in a preliminary form.

A local citizen's group, headed by Henry H. Gage and John G. Hansbury of Titusville, has been joined by the Hopewell Township Committee in opposing the site, although it too supports the intent of the Drama Association. Opposition is based on the grounds that the project would destroy open space, disturb Park wildlife, bring in traffic and noise pollution, and "commercialize" the Park and its adjacent residential area.

The opposition group has a list of "areas of concern," which we went through with Mr. Truncer. He disposed of some concerns quite satisfactorily; others were less easily coped with; some questions — Continued on Next Page

The programs begin at 5:30 p.m., prefaced by dinner at 5:30 p.m. This Sunday's topic is "Homes for the Aged," with the Rev. Howard Caskey as speaker. On November 7, the Philadelphia Methodist Hospital and the Oklahoma Indian Mission will be discussed. The November 14 meeting moves to the Kingston Church, where the Rev. Fred Arnold and the Rev. Harry Zane will discuss inner city missions.

The School of Missions was planned by the commissions on missions of the two churches. Supper reservations may be made at the churches.

TO HOLD PEW SERVICE

At First Baptist. The Ladies Guild of First Baptist Church, John Street and Avalon Place, is sponsoring a Pew Service at 3:30 this Sunday. Mrs. Ruth Marrow is Guild president.

The Rev. O. R. Lyons, pastor of St. Paul-AME Zion Church of Trenton, is the featured speaker. Special music will be provided by his choir.

VESTRY REORGANIZES

At Trinity. The vestry of Trinity Episcopal Church has elected new members from the Trinity Church Committee to fill vacancies left by the resignation of vestry members of All Saints' Church, and has named Christopher R. P. Rodgers second warden, replacing William Flemer of All Saints.

Named to the vestry are John V. Fleming, Mrs. Robert J. Shaw, Leighton Laughlin, Mrs. James A. Phox, Frank T. Gorman Jr. and Henry Besire.

TO HOLD BAZAAR

The bazaar will feature baked goods, aprons, Christmas items, plants, a children's table and a white elephant table. The hospitality booth will offer free refreshments.

TO HEAR SEMINARIAN

At St. Andrew's. "Something to Believe In" is the title of the sermon to be given by Thomas F. Berry, Princeton Theological Seminary senior, at 10 on Sunday in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

Mr. Berry, whose home is in Emmaus, Pa., is a graduate of Wake Forest University and spent last summer in a hospital chaplaincy program in Amarillo, Texas. He teaches a senior high class at the church and is advisor to the senior high youth fellowship.

Church school classes for grades 5 through adult will be held from 11 until noon.

BULLETIN NOTES

All Saints' Day will be observed on Sunday at the Princeton United Methodist Church. The 9:45 a.m. church school and the 11 a.m. worship service will be coordinated in a two-hour celebration of the day. Rev. Dr. Jay K. Helms will preach the sermon, and students from the congregation will participate.

A family service is set for 11 on Sunday at Trinity Church, Rocky Hill, with members of the Sunday School taking part in leading the worship. Coffee hour follows with discussion of the sermon text.

A Litany for All Souls will be said and the memorial garden dedicated this Sunday at the Unitarian Church of Princeton. The Rev. Robert L. Cope will lead the services at 9:30 and 11 a.m.

A benefit dinner will be held on Saturday at the Morning Star Church of God in Christ, 43½ Birch Avenue. The menu features turkey, barbecued spareribs and southern fried chicken. Serving begins at noon, and take-out orders may be arranged by calling 924-5478. Donation is $3.

However, his answer to "would taxpayers' money ever be used if the theater is not a financial success?" was a key one in relation to this and so many other public interest questions: "the Department cannot commit itself in terms of what future legislators may do. The only answer can be that public awareness will guard against future misuse."

Note to the Voters: New Jersey, the most densely populated state in the U.S.A., has a smaller proportion of dedicated parklands to population than any other state; desperately needs land for parks and playgrounds, rural and urban; and has run out of money to buy them. Since open space in farm lands alone is disappearing at the rate of 80 acres per day, time is of the essence.

The Green Acres Bond Act of 1971 provides for compensation to communities for loss of tax revenue from lands sold under the Act. Let's keep some of "the Corridor State" grass-green or soil-brown instead of asphalt-black by voting FOR the Green Acres Bond on November 2.

Note to the Candidates (and those in office.) The Conservation Coalition has been so pleased with the candidates' enthusiasm for recycling through the municipal collections, that it is looking forward to cooperating with the local governments in setting up municipal collections early in 1972. In the meanwhile, those doughty volunteers will be at it again on the next Recycling Day, November 5.

Many Losers, No Winners In Football Impasse

Princeton may be thrown for a big loss unless the dispute between Princeton High School coaches and the school administration over the dismissal of a black football player can be resolved satisfactorily.

"It's become much more than simply Hines against the coaches," said two students in school Monday night, while a meeting of parents of football players was going on inside the cafeteria.

Many stand to lose something. For the football players themselves, there have been no practices this week. A jay-vee game with Bridgewater-Raritan Monday was cancelled. At stake are the four remaining varsity games which may be cancelled.

And football may be only the first domino to fall. Basketball has been threatened with a boycott. It can happen, as basketball coach Larry Ivan fears, "that the whole varsity sport program may go down the drain," and only serve to further polarize white and black students.

For the six assistant coaches, it represents a breakdown in their authority and a subsequent loss of discipline. If a coach can no longer dismiss a player for disciplinary reasons and make it stick, then the result is anarchy. Any sport will be fair game for any disgruntled group.

Dick Wood, who has guided the Little Tigers to more victories than losses in his ten-year reign, sees it as a possible "Dump Wood" campaign. "If some feel the program would be better off with another coach, that's okay—but do it in a straightforward way," he declared. "I'm not resigning under these conditions."

This Is Princeton

the good of the team," she reported.

"Lots of us don't know the background of this incident," said Wilburt Brooks, a black parent and staff member of the school system. His remark brought shouts of "Thank you! thank you!" from black students in the audience.

"I remember once before when the coaches threatened to resign—that was over salary," Mr. Brooks continued. "I've heard coaches curse players, but I say this: whoever is wrong, should be punished."

When Richard Cunningham, young black administrative assistant at the high school, told the board, "What you got to deal with is, why did this cat get thrown off the team?" a voice in the audience shouted, "That's the most intelligent question yet!"

Grievances Cited. Black students, chiefly Barbara Floyd and Tony Bailey, described a list of grievances black athletes have, and the crisis then separated into two parts: Hines' case and the prepared statement of grievances.

Young Bailey said, "some of us feel we weren't treated right," but when asked to be specific he declined, and board counsel Thomas Cook quickly ruled that any specifics should be brought out in the executive session only.

Black students mentioned discrimination against black players (not allowing them to play frequently, etc.); neglect of injuries; disrespectful language toward the players. These have been discussed with Dr. Wertheimer.

"We felt that if they can't deal with these things, then we should no longer participate in their sports," young Bailey continued. "One of us had to go: the assistant coaches or the blacks. I don't blame Mr. Wood for going along with his coaches."

The Background. When Hines, a 5-8, 165-pound starting defensive back was kicked off the team on October 12 for allegedly cursing at assistant coach Bill Cirullo, he set in motion a series of power plays and reverses that have no connection with the game. Being thrown off the team was not a new experience for Hines. Mr. Wood reported that last year he had to suspend him for hitting a Hunterdon Central coach and again for about 10 days when he had a run in with a PHS coach—again Cirullo.

This time, Hines complained to Dr. Wertheimer. His fellow black players—there are seven on the varsity, seven on the junior varsity, three on the sophomore squad and five on the freshman team—supported him. They boycotted last Thursday's practice.

They also drew up a list of

six complaints and issued an ultimatum: if something were not done about their requests, they would boycott further practices and would not come out for the basketball team. (It is likely that as many as four of the starting five on the PHS basketball team this fall would be black.)

Discrimination Charged. Their complaints: unequal treatment for blacks competing for varsity positions; unequal treatment for blacks concerning injuries; discrimination against black players; disrespectful language directed at black players by the coaches; unnecessary excuses to black players and decisions reached on players based on out-of-school activities.

An earlier one-day boycott of football practice this season by blacks escaped notice; this time, it was out in the open.

"Kangaroo Court." Mr. Wood attended a meeting held Friday in which he was questioned, he said, by about 45 blacks—players and their parents. He termed the two and one-half hour session "a kangaroo court." A second meeting with school officials attended by Dr. McPherson, Dr. Wertheimer and Director of Athletics Norman Van Arsdalen was held.

Under pressure—Mr. Wood quoted Dr. Wertheimer as saying, "don't you think what you've done is too stringent, suspension would be enough"—Mr. Wood agreed to take Hines back after a two-week suspension, ending this last Tuesday. Thinking it was settled, Dr. Wertheimer left for Boston, Mr. Van Arsdalen for Japan.

At Bridgewater-Raritan High School Saturday, Mr. Wood did not lead the team. Instead, he sat unnoticed in the Bridgewater stands. "I was so upset about the whole thing I just wasn't able to coach," he said. He added that it was a mistake on his part. Saturday night, however, Mr. Wood's six assistant coaches had reached an agreement of their own: if Hines came back as scheduled on

"I always said I would quit if I couldn't produce, but one year with a poor team doesn't mean you are doing a poor job. I have so many good kids coming up that it would be a helluva year to quit."

"I never believed in 're-building years' but that is what we're doing this year—building," said Mr. Wood, who seems certain to be saddled with his worst record ever this year. The team is presently 0-4.

The community stands to lose, too. The always-simmering specter of racism has surfaced again.

Talk with any black athlete. Not one, it seems, has any confidence that his side will ever be presented as he sees it. "I wish I could get up and twist the truth around like that," commented one, as a white speaker talked Monday at the high school.

Tuesday, they would quit. Taking that stand were Jim Beachell, Cirullo, Pat Dale, Mark Anderson, Frank Francisco and Leonard Weister.

Second Thoughts. By now, Mr. Wood also had second thoughts about his decision to take Hines back. "It wouldn't solve anything," he said. He added that if a small group were allowed to do anything they wanted to, it would affect the whole school.

"Football is a team game, and dammit, there's got to be team support."

Ironically, two members of the football team—after a meeting among team members—observed that it was their feeling that the majority of the players wanted Hines back. They added that even among white players, there was a belief that some of the black complaints were justified.

Without coaches, Mr. Wood could not conduct practices or hope to play the four games remaining on the schedule. Clearly, it was a new ballgame. Letters from the coaches and from Mr. Wood stating their positions were handed on Monday to Dr. McPherson and Dr. Wertheimer.

Many Meetings. A rash of meetings followed: coaches with the Princeton Regional Education Association leaders—the teachers' union; coaches with administration, the team players. On Monday evening, fathers of boys on the team led by Ted Kopp and Sandy Reynolds called a meeting of the parents to air the whole matter again and dispel rumor. Barred were the students, players and the press.

For two and a half hours, Mr. Wood, the coaches (including basketball coach Larry Ivan) first stated their positions again to some 100 parents and then tried to answer questions. Mr. Wood reported that he told black players when they had a problem they couldn't work out satisfactorily with the coach to take it to the team's co-captains. The fact that both co-captains were white and that there were no black coaches didn't help matters, he agreed.

One positive result that may come of all this, he continued, will be the hiring of a team trainer—something he has requested for years.

"In school, you teach kids to do their own thinking and when they do act on their own you heat them down," protested one mother. After the meeting, Dr. Wertheimer announced at 12:30 in the morning that the school officials were supporting Mr. Wood—Hines was off the team permanently.

He was—for less than 24 hours. Tuesday afternoon, Dr. McPherson in still another meeting, announced that Hines was back on the team. At the meeting, Dr. McPherson read a statement reversing the coaches—thus negating the decision reached earlier. At the time, Dr. McPherson had said he would consider the recommendation that Hines be removed permanently.

Following his decision, Mr. Wood and his assistant coaches met and decided to petition the Board of Education to rule on Dr. McPherson's decision.

Bird-watchers and the birds they watch can be equally at home in the delightful setting of this eminently comfortable home which was designed to take full advantage of it. A handsome assortment of evergreens — groundcovers, shrubs and trees — adorn the house and the grounds, which slope gently down to a small copse and a winding brook at the back. Thanks in a big, secluded terrace and lots of glass, all of this can be enjoyed whether one is sitting out or merely looking out. Solid construction, sizeable rooms and a staggering amount of built-ins throughout are outstanding features of this modified-contemporary. "Two-way stretch" could be used to describe the flexibility of the house. Split bedrooms (totaling 3), baths (2 1/2), living rooms (2), and kitchens (2) allow for stretching the house for two "separate but equal" family living styles (teenagers, in-laws, etc.) All in all this is a good house in a good Western Section location and a good buy at an offering price of $82,500

Sunshine-shade, old trees — young house, dark woodwork-white walls, contemporary atmosphere — traditional lines — this attractive house is an interesting study in contrasts. Basics include: the floored foyer, spacious living room, dining room (all with high ceilings), fine kitchen with ample eating area, family room with brick fireplace wall, 5 bedrooms (or 4 plus den), 3 baths, utility-laundry room, redwood deck, oversized 2 car garage. The basic house is enhanced by many extras, tasteful landscaping with a rather Japanese use of rocks and evergreens, a pleasant, quiet and convenient location AND, towering over all, those great old trees! $87,000

PRIME WESTERN BORO INVESTMENT PROPERTY

Maybe someday
all cars will be built like the Citroen.

Maybe someday.

Maybe it depends on you.
When you demand a car, for example, that would ride like a Rolls but costs like a Chevy. One that would take curves like a Maserati but seats a live full passengers. A car that would be in every sense a luxury car—yet burns gas like a tiny Volkswagen (27 MPG).
Maybe you could get that kind of car from Detroit if you demanded it. Or you could buy one right now. It's called a Citroen. Just go to your nearest Citroen dealer and test drive it.
Learn how good other cars may someday be; and how someday is today with a Citroen.

This Jeep vehicle has always been great.
Now with a V-8, it's fantastic.

Even if you already own a 4-wheel drive vehicle, you've got to test drive this new gutsier Jeep machine. With the new 232 CID 6-cylinder engine, the largest standard engine in its class, or the optional 304 CID V-8, it will surprise even you. For now you get even more torque, more climbing and more pulling power. To make room for these mightier Jeep guts, it's now a few inches longer. But with the new front axle, its turning circle is nearly 6 feet less than before. There are a lot of other ways this Jeep vehicle has changed for 1972. Come on in for a demonstration.

WHERE . . .

WHERE ELSE . . .

But at Country Antiques can you find . . .

A collection of Robert Frost's poems with authentic signature on first page (Sorry, not a first).

Civil War letters, from 2 Trenton brothers to their partners, written from the battlefields, plus much memorabilia.

A Civil War doctor's bleeder.

A daguerrotype of a Civil War soldier in uniform with appropriate documentation.

3 Civil War generals, small tintypes, set in early ornate buttons.

A Milton Bradley game - 1865 - "Myrloptican of the Rebellion" (meaning the Civil War); called a game because it consists of colors and pictures of the first 2 naval battles, through the burning of Richmond. Probably unique in that it survived in almost mint condition.

HALLOWEEN PARTYING? Weather permitting, a porch full of real party dresses (ones that we don't love) reduced to $3 and $5; less expensive than paper — wear and have fun! Mostly the 30's and 40's, but where else $3 and 5.

Surround yourself with trees, grass and history.

There's plenty of all three on what may be the highest spot between New York and Philadelphia. Certainly it's one of the most historic, if not the most beautiful. Just 15 homes will be custom built from your plans or ours abutting Greenacres Country Club Golf Course. Each will share in a sweep of common land... and in views and privacy all but vanished these days. Isn't all this worth $50,000 or more?
